Cut Across German Supply Lines; Clear Forest.

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Germans were seen pulling out of Metz tonight to escape being trapped inside that fortress as Lt. Gen. Patton's tanks and infantry drove forward along a 70 mile front—advancing up to four miles thru a snowstorm in some places.

A field dispatch said that long German columns, including many horse drawn vehicles, were observed moving eastward from Metz along two high roads, but it was not clear whether the Germans were withdrawing only specialized units and equipment or preparing to give up the city.

A front dispatch said there were signs of a softening of enemy defenses southeast of the city as Patten's winter offensive on its fifth day pushed 15 miles beyond jump-off positions.

Sections of the Metz-Saarbrucken railway, from which big German railway guns had been lobbing shells into American positions, were overrun.

Bridgehead Deepened.

The Han bridgehead across the Nied river was deepened to at least two miles as more and more tanks clanked across and drove up to Berny, only 17 miles from the Saar frontier east of Metz and only six miles from an enemy base at Faulquemont. Several bridges were reported captured intact.

The Germans were reported pulling back material from around Faulquemont toward the Saar as 6th division tanks rumbled nearer.

Twelve miles to the east of the 6th division vanguards, the 4th armored division kept pace by fighting forward more than three miles to Rodalbe, 2½ miles from the railhead at Benestroff that controls lines leading into Metz from Germany.

Between these two forces, the 35th infantry in a four mile advance drove the last Germans from the forest of Chateau-Salins, once a major enemy stronghold.

Beat Off 2 Counter Blows.

As the 3d army beat off two counter-blows north and south of Metz, the German radio declared that "a battle which will involve 5,000,000 men will flare up any hour in the west now."

The Nied river line was broken at a number of other points northwest of Han and even closer to Metz as the big push carried across two of the rail lines feeding into Metz from the east.

No more than 11 miles separated the Americans wheeling around Metz on the southeast and other forces pounding frontally four and one-half miles north of the fort ringed city.

Tanks of the 6th armored division crossed the Nied river at Sanry, 7 miles southeast of Metz, severed the vital railway to Saarbrucken there, and brought the main highway to that Saar basin city within artillery range. The road is 4½ miles north of Sanry.

Nazis Drive In One Wedge.

Plea from Hitler Asks Germans to Fight to Death.

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—A proclamation issued in the name of Adolf Hitler, who has been silent for more than 16 weeks, tonight summoned Germans to fight to the death and promised victory over the allies who seek Germany's "complete annihilation." It was read in Munich by Heinrich Himmler, secret police head and commander of the home front.

Heinrich Himmler.

Sounding appeals to steel the German will, the proclamation asserted surrender would not be a "cheap escape," appealed for loyalty to the fuehrer, warned that his power is absolute, and declared that "as long as I am alive Germany will not suffer the fate of European states flooded by bolshevism."

Fuehrer Still Silent.

But the voice of Hitler was not heard. His silence, since the day after an attempt was made to kill him with a bomb on July 20, has led to reports Hitler is dead, or ill, or mad. His proclamation said only that his work "does not allow me to leave headquarters even for a few days."

Hitler's proclamation assailed "international Jewry" and "bolshevist barbarisms" and promised Germany would triumph.

Death awaits any German who opposes the decision for a last ditch struggle, the proclamation said.

"Whoever attempts to sow doubts among others, whoever lifts a sword or throws a bomb against Germany, will be mercilessly and ruthlessly destroyed," it stated.

Defeat's Price Defined.

Warning of the fate that might face a defeated Germany, Hitler's proclamation said the allies were demanding that 40,000,000 Germans "be eliminated from our midst" to weaken the nation. The result of a "cowardly capitulation," he said, would be the compulsory extermination of the people and the destruction of the responsible men.

The proclamation marked the holding of the Nazis' postponed anniversary celebration of the Nov. 9, 1923, beer hall putsch in Munich and the mass swearing in of "millions" of men in the Volkssturm, or people's army, who pledged fealty to Hitler and unconditional resistance to the allies.

The Nazi leaders—Hitler by proclamation, Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, and others at Volkssturm ceremonies — held up the hara-kiri fanaticism of the Japanese as an example for Germans in defense of "our beloved reich by every home, every street corner, every clump of trees."

"To the Last Breath."

"We fight to the last breath," Goebbels told Volkssturmers in Berlin. He added that "hundreds of thousands of men have volunteered" in Berlin, and that it was his "ambition to train and equip the Berlin Volkssturm in such a manner that, if a crisis should arise at any one place on the front, we are always able to throw in three or five or 20 regiments of the Berlin Volkssturm."

These regiments, he said, would be equipped with light and heavy machine guns, and be able to "deliver a tank-punch and tank-terror."

The Volkssturm inductees' oath follows:

"I swear this oath by Almighty God: That I will be unconditionally loyal and obedient to Adolf Hitler, fuehrer of the greater German reich. I swear to fight courageously for my homeland and to die rather than abandon freedom and with it the social future of my nation."

B-29 CREWMEN HAIL PAT O'BRIEN'S TROUPE FOR SHOWS IN CHINA

A U. S. B-29 BASE IN WEST CHINA, Nov. 11 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Hollywood-G. I. feud is over so far as American Super Fortress jockeys are concerned. The enlisted men of the 20th bomber command—among the bitterest critics of previous troupes accused of listless performances and avoiding noncoms—have prepared a testimonial scroll of appreciation after a U. S. O. troupe headed by Film Star Pat O'Brien came, showed, and conquered.

O'Brien's troupe put on shows punctuated by the sound of gunfire from the Kweilin front.

"That gang nearly knocked themselves out trying to put on a real show," said one Winnetka, Ill., crewman who helped draw up the testimonial. "When a bunch of regulars such as these appear, they deserve bouquets just as those who fouled up got knocks."

O'Brien's troupe included starlet Jinx Falkenberg, a former model; singer Ruthie Carroll, dancer Betsy Yeaton, singer and guitarist Jimmy Dodd, and the troupe manager and pianist, Harry Brown. Brown is the father of Lt. Tom Brown, former Hollywood actor now serving overseas.

Blessed Event, Indeed! Stork Calls at Church

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12 (AP).—Morning services at Powderhorn Park Baptist church were disrupted today by the stork. Becoming ill during the sermon by the Rev. Wallace A. Olson, Mrs. Fred Parker was taken to a basement lounge where she was delivered of a 5 pound, 10 ounce girl.

Britain to Junk Liberty Ships; U.S. Gets Steel

BY JAMES SLOAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 12. — Britain's fears regarding the possibility it might have to accept as gifts thousands of tons of American Liberty ships after the war, which would cripple its shipbuilding industry, were allayed today by the London newspaper, Empire News. Answering the forebodings voiced in Britain lately regarding the future of the Liberty ship fleet, which helped to save Britain and the empire in the dark days early in the war, the Empire News says:

"Post-war shipbuilding will not suffer from the vast war production of Liberty ships. They are to be broken up and the steel held for America under the lend-lease agreement."

Start on Junking Soon.

A start will be made soon on cutting up the first Liberty ship within a few weeks. A new company has been formed for the purpose and its operating headquarters will be in a southern port, where the first Liberty ship now lies awaiting destruction.

Teams of welders equipped with acetylene cutters will strip the ships down to basic steel plates, a task estimated to require six to eight months on each ship. Each vessel, it is estimated, will yield between 4,000 and 5,000 tons of steel.

No decision has been made about what will happen to the steel, which under lend-lease remains the property of the United States and should technically return to America. It is quite possible, however, an arrangement will be made under which Britain will retain the steel and utilize it for construction of houses.

Negotiations Are On.

Negotiations are proceeding between the board of trade and United States lend-lease experts to determine the future of this and other steel sent to Great Britain during the war years.

The negotiations are a result of a case in which a large electric locomotive manufacturer in Britain had to refuse a contract for the colonies worth millions of dollars.

Reports Called Absurd.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—Reports from London that American Liberty ships are to be cut for scrap in England were termed absurd by a spokesman for the maritime commission tonight. He said there is a pressing need for more ships and that Liberty ships still are being turned out in American ship yards as rapidly as possible to meet the demand. In view of this, he said, no seaworthy ships are being taken out of operation.

SCHOOL BANDMASTER AND 4 FANS BURNED AT FOOTBALL GAME

Mount Carmel High school's band put so much realism into its "Keep the Home Fires Burning" program at the Mount Carmel-St. Rita football game yesterday, that Bandmaster Thomas Fabish, 30, of 7015 S. Campbell av., and four fans suffered second degree burns.

Between halves in 83d and Yates stadium the band strutted out for a formation in the pattern of a cottage, replete with chimney into which a real smoke pot was set. This contained a phosphoric compound. As the band began to play, one musician dropped a match into the pot. Flames flared up and fire swept upon Fabish and fans on the side lines.

In addition to Fabish, others treated in South Chicago hospital were John Guerin, 22, of 7217 Emerald av.; Frank Burns, 17, of 5730 Emerald av.; John Quinn, 16, of 6530 Green st., and John Kilmartin, 17, of 5557 Green st.

BOY, 9, LOCKED 8 DAYS IN TOOL BOX OF TRAILER

Longbeach, Cal., Nov. 12 (AP).—Weak and emaciated but in surprisingly good condition, a 9 year old boy was found today in a tool compartment of an abandoned auto trailer after eight days of confinement, police said.

The boy, David Bourbonnais, was the object of a city-wide search after his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bourbonnais, reported him missing.

An occupant of a trailer camp near the Bourbonnais home this morning heard a noise in the rear of an abandoned trailer and opened a compartment to find the child curled up inside. David told officers a "big boy" had locked him in the compartment last Sunday in what David thought was a joke.

Son of Sinclair Lewis Is Killed in France

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—Lt. Wells Lewis, 27, son of Novelist Sinclair Lewis, and a former wife, Mrs. Grace Heger Casanova, was killed in action in France, Oct. 29, the war department notified his mother today. Sinclair Lewis, said by associates to be in Chicago, was not immediately informed of his son's death.

THREE AMERICAN COLUMNS BATTLE TO CLOSE VISE ON JAPS AT ORMOC

24th Division Takes Peak Dominating Main Road.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 13 [Monday]—(AP).—Driving thru jungles and mountains, American forces yesterday made gains ranging from a few hundred yards to 3 miles and tightened their squeeze against reënforced Japanese troops crammed in western Leyte Island.

Units of the 24th division made the longest jump on the route from Carigara Bay to Ormoc. The infantry men plunged thru difficult terrain to capture the heights of Mount Catabaran, a 2,300 foot peak dominating the roadway to Ormoc. They advanced 3 miles, from Hill 1525, near the northern end of the Ormoc corridor.

Progress on Highway.

The main column of the 24th, supported by heavy tank and aerial fire, made "good progress against heavy opposition" along the main road southward from Limon, today's bulletin reported.

Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's fanatical Japanese forces continued their attempts to break the American vise pressing them against blasted Ormoc. But a headquarters spokesman said the Americans still held both the preponderance of numbers and the initiative.

Continued pressure by a series of Yank ground attacks, supported by heavy artillery and air bombardments, thus far have kept the Japanese on the defensive, despite the great numbers of reënforcements they have succeeded in pouring into the Leyte battle front.

Bag 13 Fighters.

The Nipponese made no new attempt to send fresh troops ashore, after losing four transports, six destroyers, and most of 8,000 reënforcements in the complete destruction of a convoy off Ormoc Saturday by American carrier planes.

Today's bulletin reported that 3d fleet carrier planes shot down 13 enemy fighters during their assault on the latest Japanese reënforcement convoy at Ormoc Saturday.

Close Yank Pincers.

Elements of the 1st cavalry division are meeting increasing resistance in the Mount Pina saddle, to the southeast of the road. The cavalry men have spread out across rugged ridges, to protect the flanks of the main American column punching down the Ormoc road.

In the 24th corps sector, in the center of Leyte Island, Americans were closing in from both the east and the south, moving against Japanese hill positions and enemy remnants which fled to the mountains after the Yank thrust thru central Leyte valley, near the island's east coast.

Climb High Mountains.

WITH A CAVALRY DIVISION IN WESTERN LEYTE, P. I., Nov. 12 (AP).—A job reminiscent of the tortuous human pack trains over New Guinea's Owen Stanley mountains is being repeated on this division's mountainous battle front southwest of Carigara.

The action is thru the passes of this 4,000 foot mountain sector. Sharing laurels with combat troops as heroes of the advance are division headquarters company troops and hundreds of Filipinos who are carrying 45 pound ration boxes and ammunition six and seven miles up back breaking hills. The sturdiest of the human packers can make the grueling trip in six hours.

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, division commander, hiked six miles into the mountains. The men up front exchanged quips with Gen. Mudge and expressed surprise at seeing two stars on a helmet so far forward.

Tribune Writers Tell Feats of Chicagoans in Philippines

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE PT BOATS IN ORMOC HARBOR, Leyte Island, Nov. 11 [Delayed].—Muffled PT boats waiting in and near this last Jap base on Leyte Island this morning intercepted a convoy of six destroyers and four transports carrying 8,000 troop reënforcements.

Lt. William Hempel.

The PT's tangled with the first three lead destroyers and torpedoed one. Last night PT boats commanded by Lt. Melvin Haines, 105 4th av., Wilmette, Ill., and Lt. Joe Beckman, Tacoma, Wash., sank one destroyer at the entrance to the harbor.

During the day planes had spotted the new convoy approaching Leyte. Our boat, "Little Butch," its officers, Lt. Juan McElfresh, Olean, N. Y., and Lt. William [Butch] Hempel, 4910 School st., Chicago, former Chicago Bears' tackle, and its crew were veterans, with one destroyer already to their credit in the Philippines.

Shrapnel Hits Boat.

The PT now has a big patch on one side where shrapnel hit en route to Ormoc bay. A Jap plane tried to slip in on our tail and she was closing fast when Ray McCahon, Beverly, Mass., a gunner, spotted her. The PT's loosed such a barrage the Jap turned and fled out of range.

About 2:30 a. m. Lt. William West and his PT were bouncing up the coast to meet two other boats. He picked out two objects, and they came charging up to greet him. The first thing he knew 5-inch shells were dropping all around him. Instead of two buddy PT's the two objects were Jap destroyers, the first of the convoy.

Meets Two Other Boats.

They caught him in their light, but West's boat threw out a smoke screen and vanished into it. He dashed down the coast and met the two other boats officered by Lt. Fordan Caldis, Thief River Falls, Minn., and Lt. Bob Walters, Wilmington, N. C.

The three headed up the coast towards the other Jap destroyers and found that two of them had been destroyed by a third PT boat. When within a mile the three PT's fired their torpedoes in one big salvo. Two of the destroyers charged the boats. For 15 minutes the race was on.

Walters and Caldis decided to sideslip the destroyers, headed toward the shore, cut their engines, and let the ships dash by. Out of torpedoes, they had to watch the convoy pass. West continued ahead and outran the destroyers.

Tells of Surigao Battle.

"You should have been with us in the Battle of Surigao straits," Lt. Hempel said. "We fired two torpedoes at a destroyer. They missed and the destroyer caught us in its searchlight. We shot it out. Later, boats picked up the commander of the Jap destroyer, who said his ship had sunk after being strafed and torpedoed by our PT."

COBRA OR JAPS?

BY WALTER SIMMONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEYTE ISLAND, Philippines, Nov. 12.—Three Illinois men during an air raid last night had a tough decision to make. In their foxhole was a hooded cobra, outside flak was raining down and a Jap nuisance bomber was circling. They got out of the foxhole in a hurry and later they killed the cobra with a club.

The men, members of an engineer company, were Pvt. Ollis Hanks, 2750 Wilcox st., and Pvt. Henry Turnell, 6336 S. Winchester av., both of Chicago, and Sgt. William C. Shaeffer, Fairfield, Ill.

Two other Chicagoans, Sgt. Claude Hysy, 8713 Marquette av., and Pvt. Barry Hokanson, 5210 Kenmore av., returned from an ambush with a happy disrespect for Jap marksmanship. Members of a 15 man 24th division scouting party, the Chicagoans were attacked with machine guns, mortars, and grenades on a narrow road fringed with dense vegetation.

Artillery to Rescue.

Hysy and Hokanson expected to see the group cut to pieces, but only one man was hit. He got a superficial leg wound. American artillery wiped out the Jap position a few minutes later.

Other midwesterners near the spot included Capt. Joseph Hurley, 4106 Monticello av., former Chicago police secretary, who is an intelligence officer; Pvt. Lyle Gotts, 6269 Ellis av., Chicago, in a signal corps company; Capt. Nicholas Sloan, Hoopeston, Ill., a regimental plans officer in the 24th division, and Sgt. Paul Baranek, Carrollville, Wis., in a corps supply depot.

BRUSHES OFF ZEROS

BY THOMAS MORROW.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE PACIFIC FLEET, Nov. 6 [Delayed].—It's not an unusual thing for bomber pilots to go about shooting down enemy fighters. Fellow flyers, however, who have dubbed him Ace, agree that Lt. William P. Colleran, 643 Belmont av., Chicago, is no usual pilot.

Lt. Wm. P. Colleran.

Bill, making a bombing run on a subsidiary air strip north of Clark field, Luzon Island, bounced one fast Japanese fighter plane into the ground and may have demolished a second. His effort was part of two day battering raids by carrier borne planes of the 3d fleet on Luzon fields, which blasted an estimated 759 Japanese planes out of commission.

"They just got in the way," said Colleran, with an embarrassed grin, in answer to the whistles and calls of appreciation of his teammates. "The first guy was just taking off when we were 45 feet off the ground. He got in my sights and I fired a burst. He went over, a wing burning. The gunner said he crashed. The second making a run for a take-off must have caught some bullets. The gunner said he got up and then went full speed into a clump of trees. My gunner was so excited he shot a little piece off of our tail in celebration."

Loses Part of Plane.

Colleran said he is considering dedicating the plane to Ward Committeeman Joe Gill. "If he doesn't get as many votes as usual," he mused, "maybe he will like to have a Japanese airplane."

Lt. Hartman A. Soli, River Falls, Wis., a fighter pilot, left half his plane stabilizer over his target at Clark field. A burst of flak found his tail and put the plane into a spin at 14,000 feet. Fighting the controls, Soli went down 800 feet before the ship pulled out of its dive. Using all his strength to keep the nose in the air, Soli brought his plane back safely to the carrier.

Lt. [j. g.] W. C. Sperry, Bushnell, Ill., bomber pilot, reported happily five fires burning at Lipa field when he left. "There were big colums of smoke," he said, "and planes and buildings were burning nicely."

Ensign Weldon B. Bahr, Festus, Mo., and Lt. Gerald M. Sullivan, Detroit, Mich., were greatly intrigued over a train they found.

"It was the first train we'd seen," Bahr said. "We were so glad that we went down real low and strafed it, and set several oil cars afire."

BRITAIN SENDS EXPERT STAFF TO AIR PARLEY

Headed by Swinton, Aid to Empire Industry.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

The British government, which tries to handle its diplomacy with a hundred year look into the future, is represented by a delegation of top drawer specialists at the International Civil Aviation conference now in progress in the Stevens hotel.

Philip Cunliffe-Lister.

The British perceive that aviation is a great new factor in the affairs of men, and that both their trade and their security will depend on how they handle it. They have the experience of the 100 years of the Pax Britannica, based on sea power, and are determined to have a hand in shaping an era of peace based on air power.

The head of their delegation to the Chicago conference is the foremost trouble shooter of the empire, Philip Cunliffe-Lister, known as Viscount Swinton, who has helped his country over much rough ground in the last five years.

British Leader Analyzed.

Swinton, a tall, lean, partly bald man of 59, has a direct, frank manner of speaking and a winning smile. He looks over his spectacles a good deal of the time, giving him a school teacher appearance that is belied by his decisive manner of speech.

He was educated at Winchester and Oxford, and had practiced law for six years when World War I. began in 1914. He joined the army and won the military cross in France, being invalided out after three years' service. The last year of the war he was joint secretary to the minister of national service.

In 1918, Swinton was elected a conservative member of parliament, holding the seat for 17 years, until he was made a peer in 1935. In those 17 years, he was three times president of the board of the trade [the department of commerce], and from 1931 to 1935 was secretary of state for colonies.

Swinton Helps British Industry.

As president of the board of trade he reorganized the British movie industry, writing a new cinematograph act which put the industry on its feet. The corporation laws of Britain also were revised during his tenure of office.

His four years as colonial secretary also were notable. He originated schemes for solving problems of rubber, sugar, tea, and tin producers, insisting that primary producers should get a fair price and that improved methods of production should be encouraged.

Swinton became secretary of state for air in 1935, and thus became responsible for a large part of the preparations for the "battle of Britain." He is given credit for organizing the "shadow" factories, which were ready to spring into production of aircraft when the war began.

One Man Cabinet in Africa.

In 1942, Swinton was made cabinet minister resident in West Africa, responsible for coördinating the work there. He was a one man cabinet, with power to make decisions for all departments of the home government. Swinton still retains the chairmanship of the United Kingdom Commercial corporation, created to develop trade and supplies in the middle east, India, Spain, and Portugal.

Swinton brought with him to Chicago a huge and competent staff. Another of the delegates is Sir Arthur Street, permanent undersecretary of the air ministry.

Another notable on the delegation is Edward George William Tyrwhitt Knollys, who inherited his father's title of Viscount Knollys. He is a handsome, black haired Briton, who was educated at Harrow and Oxford and who won the distinguished flying cross in the last war.

Later he became a banker and head of an insurance company, and was appointed governor of Bermuda in 1941. Two years later, he was named chairman of the British Overseas Aviation corporation, the new British monopoly company that absorbed British Imperial Airways and other British lines in preparation for a strong bid for post-war air commerce.

Britain's Delegates Big Men.

Knollys is listed as an adviser to the British delegation at the air conference. Another adviser is Air Chief Marshal Frederick Bowhill, commander in chief of the ferry command, which corresponds to the American air transport command. Others on the British staff represent the foreign office, the dominions office, and the treasury.

Two factors underlie the British position. One is security. England knows what it means to be bombed. She also believes that she narrowly escaped capture by a paratroop army. Therefore, she wants international control of all aircraft that could be used to carry armies.

The second factor is trade. Britain's chief means of livelihood is the carrying, insuring, and financing of the world's commerce. To maintain her position, she hopes to play a large role in future world air commerce.

PEARL HARBOUR.

Los Angles, Cal., Nov. 12 (AP).—Pearl Harbour is enlisting in the WAC. The army announced today Pearl O. Harbour of North Hollywood has joined the fight to avenge her name, the seventh member of a fighting family to do so. Her son fought on Saipan and she has five brothers in the fighting services.

HOPE OF ENDING ELECTRIC LINES' STRIKE WANES

Settlement of a strike by 600 trainmen on the Aurora-Elgin and North Shore electric roads started last Friday dimmed yesterday when union officials said that the men would not return until a demanded 9 cent an hour wage increase is granted. An alternative, they said, would be the taking over of the lines by the government, in which case they would reopen negotiations.

Yesterday the steam railroads and bus systems, which have added to their services during the emergency, were swamped with Sunday traffic. Traffic was particularly heavy on the Milwaukee division of the North Western railway, officials said, because of thousands of visitors to Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training center. "Liberty trains," in regular operation from the camps on week-ends, were taxed to capacity, altho many of the service men were spending their leaves in near-by Waukegan.

GREEN DEMANDS CHICAGO-EUROPE ROUTE BY AIR

BY FRANK HUGHES.

Gov. Green yesterday asked the United States delegation at the International Civil Aviation conference in the Stevens hotel to reconsider the plan of international air routes it submitted to the conference last week and to include recommendation for a route from Chicago to Europe via Goose Bay airport in Labrador.

The governor made the request in a letter to Adolf A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state and chairman of the United States delegation. The governor said that the route plan, which was filed as an official United States proposal earlier, had been called to his attention and that he was disturbed to find that no Chicago-Europe connection had been asked for.

Plan Drafted by Berle.

The United States route plan was drafted in Washington and brought here by Berle. It is based on a report made public last summer by the civil aeronautics board, which set forth the routes that American commercial aircraft probably would want to fly to other nations after the war. The route plan was conspicuous for two things: None of the routes touched on Russian territory or connected with Russian cities, and the only route originating in Chicago was the one to Tokyo, Shanghai, and Canton, via Alaska and Paramushiro.

Gov. Green said that he did not suppose that the route pattern precluded a Chicago-Europe route, but that he considered it advisable for the delegation to mention such a route specifically in any United States requests because of the importance of Chicago as the aerial hub of domestic aviation and because it is the great trade and commercial center of the middle west and of the United States.

Green Asks Reconsideration.

He asked that the United States delegation reconsider the plan previously submitted so that the Chicago-Europe route could be included and suggested that if the delegation needs further information on Chicago's claim for recognition it could be furnished by Ben Regan, chairman of the Illinois aeronautic commission, or by officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The text of Gov. Green's letter follows:

"My attention has been called to the United States proposals for international air routes which have been submitted to the International Civil Aviation conference at its current sessions. I am disturbed to note that these proposals do not include any air route from Chicago or any other point in the middle west to Europe via the short great circle line.

Chicago-Europe Route Sound.

"The holding of this conference, of which you are president, in Chicago was welcomed thruout the middle west as a recognition of the natural geographical advantages of Chicago on the world aviation map. The soundness of a direct Chicago to Europe route by way of fog free Goose Bay airport in Labrador is, of course, familiar to all air minded business men in the middle west. Certainly the United States should include such a route in the statement of routes needed for American commerce which it presents to representatives of other nations.

"I am informed that the proposal of routes submitted, to which I have referred, is based on recommendations of the civil aeronautics board. I do not know why this agency failed to include the route from Chicago to Europe; but I do know that both the commercial air lines and the civic and business organizations of the vast middle west are prepared to appeal to every possible authority for the opening of such a line.

Demands Action at Conference.

"I assume that there is nothing final in the statement of routes which the United States has given to the delegates attending the present conference. Yet this matter is of such vital importance, not only to Chicago and Illinois, but to all the sections of America which can be more conveniently served in air transportation from the inland center of Chicago with all its recognized advantages, that it should be brought to the attention of the American delegation and of the representatives of other nations now present in Chicago.

"May I, therefore, suggest that you present this communication to the United States delegation at the International Civil Aviation conference. Should you wish to hear arguments in support of a direct route to Europe from Chicago, may I suggest that you call upon Mr. Ben Regan, chairman of the aeronautics commission of the state of Illinois, representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and representatives of the commercial air lines now operating out of Chicago.

"May I again express the hope that your conference will result in real progress for post-war international aviation and promote international understanding and good will which is so vital to the future commerce and prosperity of the entire world."

Meanwhile, clew to the mystery of why Russia bowed out of the international conference of 54 allied and neutral nations was found in a statement of China's air policy presented by Chiang Kai-ngau, chairman of the Chinese delegation here.

Chinese View Disclosed.

The Chinese delegation said that it welcomes foreign air services as long as Chinese security and sovereigaty remain unaffected, and declared that it will limit the right of foreign aircraft to fly over its territory "contingent upon the reaching of a mutual understanding on the matter of commercial entry."

This means that China does not subscribe to the "four freedoms of the air," offered by British and Canadians here, which would permit aircraft of all nations to fly and trade freely thruout the world.

Some observers here say that Russia is no more prepared to grant open flying rights than is China. They see a parallel in the rising nationalist spirit in both nations. Russia, they say, probably withdrew her delegation after it had reached Winnipeg en route to Chicago because the soviet government feared she might become isolated in this gathering of allied nations. The official Russian excuse that some other countries invited were "pro-Fascist" was merely window dressing, the observers comment.

American Stand a Puzzle.

America's official position at the conference on the nationalist-internationalist issue is confused. Berle is an ardent devotee of global thinking, and he prepared most of the American policy making statements in Washington before he came here.

He issued a summary of the American position recently, however, which said that his "standard form" of air agreements, which is a kind of model contract to be used between nations, "does not provide for general freedom of transit, but limits transit to that necessary for the operation of services agreed upon."

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 12 [Special].—Jane Russell is coming back to the screen after an absence since 1940, Producer Hunt Stromberg said today. He added that Howard Hughes, who has her under contract, has agreed to her appearance in the forthcoming Stromberg movie, "Young Widow." Hughes selected Miss Russell for the lead in his film, "The Outlaw," in 1940 when she was a doctor's receptionist in Van Nuys, Cal. A publicity campaign made her figure famous thruout the country, but the Hays office refused to give the film its approval.

CLAIMS BRITISH ARMY NOT GIVEN CREDIT FOR SUCCESSES IN EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Sunday Dispatch's military analyst Paul Renker complained today that the British army is not getting the credit it deserves for achievements during the last five months in France, Belgium and Holland. Saying there is an impression among the allies that the "share taken by the British in battles now being waged is extremely limited," Renker finds the "British army has achieved the past and present advances under conditions no other allied army has had to face in such continuity."

Writing off Russia's drives with a sentence, Renker claimed, "The advance made by British and Canadian divisions from the Normandy beachhead to Holland is an even greater success. . . . The very impressive advance made by the 3d and 1st United States armies was carried out under less difficult conditions than the British conquest of the channel coast and the penetration into Holland.

"Every one of our allies' armies has had 'breaks' between its heaviest fighting—breathing spaces during which the enemy was either unable to bring into battle sufficient reënforcements or when the nature of the country made tough defense impossible. It was always during these breaks that spectacular advances were achieved. The British army has not been blessed with such breaks."

DAVIS REPORTED RESIGNING AS HEAD OF WLB

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 [Special]. — William H. Davis, chairman of the national war labor board, has offered his resignation to President Roosevelt to become effective Jan. 1, it was reported today. The President is understood to have replied, asking Davis to see him soon.

It was reported that Davis may be offered the post of secretary of labor to succeed Frances Perkins if she resigns or is ousted. If Davis quits, the WLB vice chairman, George W. Taylor, will resign at the same time, it was said.

Lloyd K. Garrison, former dean of the University of Wisconsin law school and a public member of the board, has been mentioned as Davis' possible successor.

REPORT GERMAN COLUMNS BEGIN TREK FROM METZ

the Koenigsmacher bridgehead on the Moselle river 19 miles north of Metz and within 4 miles of the German frontier.

It finally was checked near Kerling, 3 miles east of Koenigsmacher, and then the 90th division veterans countered and seized old Fort Koenigsmacher, virtually part of the Maginot line, taking 300 prisoners.

The second enemy counter-blow was aimed from the east toward Hampont, 3 miles east of Chateau-Salins and was the first attack the Germans had attempted in the main fighting zone. Latest word at supreme headquarters was that this thrust was held.

Tell of Big Tank Battle.

Transocean, German propaganda agency, reported the engagement as a "gigantic tank battle" and asserted it would grow in intensity. It said Patton was attacking with 500 to 700 tanks.

Strong aerial support was given the 3d army. Fighter bombers of the 19th tactical air command claimed the destruction of 20 tanks and 91 other vehicles. Ten of the tanks were knocked out in the counter-attacking force on the Moselle north of Metz.

The six infantry and two armored divisions now joined in the battle brought their count of prisoners yesterday to 3,625.

Heavy rearguard actions were protecting the German withdrawal, and some rear elements still were fighting in the village of Gerbercourt, at the eastern edge of the forest of Chateau-Salins as much as seven miles behind the advanced American elements.

Big Guns Still Silent.

For some reason the big guns of the forts ringing Metz had yet to open up on the American columns fighting five miles to the south and even nearer on the north, possibly because the gunners are without aerial observation to direct their fire.

The German war bulletin intimated that something big was afoot far to the north in eastern Holland facing the Ruhr valley, reporting "continuous enemy movements" in the Nijmegen and Helmond areas and "heavy attacks by battle planes."

An Associated Press front dispatch confirmed the German report about this front, saying that the enemy was patroling aggressively in an attempt to gather information and was shelling allied troops in their water-soaked foxholes.

To the south on the American 1st army front, doughboys cleaned out more pillboxes near the bomb-smashed town of Schmidt, 13 miles southeast of Aachen, under heavy enemy mortar and machine gun fire.

Follow Up Nazi Withdrawal.

The United States 7th army on the southern end of the 450-mile front followed up a German withdrawal forced by flooding of the lowlands. The Americans drew up along the Muerthe river and pressed to within two miles of St. Die, in the entrance to one of the passes thru the Vosges to the Rhineland.

These forces seized Herbaville, two miles northwest of St. Die, La Fosse, three miles southwest, and cleaned all but scattered units from the forests of Mortagne and De Champ screening St. Die on the west.

They also took the villages of Etival and Pajaille on the Muerthe river six miles northwest of St. Die and Le Vivier.

The French 1st army in the Vosges mountains farther south was tied up by heavy rains and snow.

A German broadcast also intimated that a showdown battle was about to break for the besieged French channel port of Dunkerque, asserting that more than 62,000 men, women, and children had been evacuated under a truce.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Sunday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said:

"Our divisions yesterday [Saturday] countered the 3d United States army's attempt to bring about the fall of the Metz fortress by operative encirclement. The enemy who tried to widen his bridgehead between Koenigsmacher and Sierek was repulsed. On Lorraine's southwestern border, northeast of Nomeny and northeast of Chateau-Salins attacking enemy spearheads, encountering fiercest resistance offered by our divisions, gained ground after suffering heavy losses.

"Fighting activity in the western Vosges abated. The enemy made smaller unsuccessful thrusts against the eastern side of the Lorient fortress after his demand for capitulation went unanswered."

ROBBED IN LOOP.

Horace Reed, 1067 Ainslie st., told police yesterday that a Negro armed with a knife robbed him of $18 near Monroe and Dearborn sts.

CHIEF OF STAFF TO GEN. ROYCE IS CHICAGOAN

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT 1ST PROVISIONAL AIR FORCE HDQ., France, Nov. 12.—Lt. Col. Russell L. Putman, a Chicago magazine publisher, describes himself these days as needing as much versatility as a "utility outfielder."

Putman is chief of staff for Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, commander of the 1st provisional air force, and also is public relations officer for the unit. "I haven't been asked yet to fly on a combat mission," Putman said. "But I wouldn't mind that, either."

Actually his war flying days are behind him, but his son, Pvt. Richard Putman, is now at aerial gunnery school in the United States. The elder Putman had trained as a pursuit pilot in the first World war and was just about to go into action when armstice was declared. He is head of the Putman Publishing company, 737 N. Michigan av., Chicago, which prints two bimonthly magazines. His residence is in Allegan county, Mich.

MIDWEST YANKS RUN NAZI TOWN; PEOPLE LIKE IT

Monschau Best Behaved Occupied Place.

MONSCHAU, Germany, Nov. 8 [Delayed] (AP). — The best behaved town in occupied Germany is this story book place on the United States 1st army's front line southeast of Aachen.

But Monschau itself is the exact opposite of the shattered, charred, dead city of Aachen. This picturesque and enchanting town, snuggling deep in a rocky gorge, was evacuated relatively unscathed by the wehrmacht.

Nazi Traces Vanish.

All traces of the Nazis seem to have vanished. The town now is run by a military government detachment commanded by Capt. Robert A. Goetcheus, a former Indianapolis lawyer. Credited by 1st army headquarters with an exceptionally well run community, Goetcheus says this is largely due to civilian coöperation.

"These people are tired of war," Goetcheus said, "and would welcome peace at any price. Peace with American occupation seems to them to be much preferable to continued resistance. I believe they are not unhappy to see us here. No case of sabotage by an inhabitant has yet occurred."

Chicago Banker on Staff.

Before evacuating Monschau, the Nazis also planned to destroy its fire fighting equipment. Townspeople, hearing this, hid the community's fire engine in a cave. After the Americans arrived, they hauled it out again.

Capt. H. M. Tibbits, a former Chicago banker, attached to Goetcheus' staff, pointed out that when the Yanks arrived they found 76,000 reichsmarks in the local bank, now under American control. Soon new deposits brought this up to 100,000.

BOMBER OF NAZI HOMELAND IS HEARD ON W-G-N

The voice of Sgt. Walter Cohn of 2004 E. 71st st., who recently paid his home town of Gelsenkirchen, Germany, his first visit in five years, was heard yesterday over W-G-N-Mutual in the American Eagle in Britain program. Sgt. Cohn's visit to Germany was not a social one. He watched bombs from the Liberator on which he was a nose gunner shower down upon an oil plant he used to pass daily on his way to school. Sgt. Cohn left Germany in December, 1939.

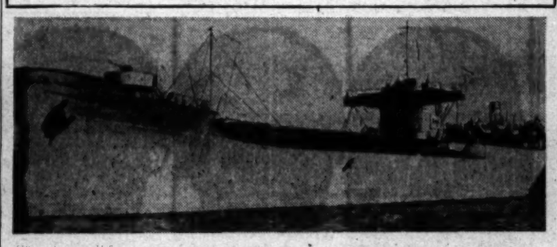
World's Largest Tank Steamer



[Associated Press Wirephoto: From Coast Guard.]

S. S. Phoenix, world's largest tank steamer from cargo-carrying standpoint, which was developed by U. S. Coast Guard's marine inspection division. Built at Norfolk, Va., in 116 days, vessel carries 217,795 barrels of oil, or more than 9,000,000 gallons. It was launched Sept. 23 and has just completed trials.

HALSEY SCENTS JAP PLEA FOR PEACE AND URGES ITS REJECTION

ABOARD U. S. 3D FLEET FLAGSHIP, in the Western Pacific, Nov. 10 [Delayed]—(AP) [Via Navy Radio].—Adm. Halsey, declaring, "I expect a Japanese peace feeler at any time," said today the United States should be prepared to reject instantly any Japanese proposal for a compromise truce.

He told a press conference that "the high up monkeymen know the handwriting is on the wall. It is most important now that they do not weaken back home, because there must not be a compromise peace."

The 3d fleet commander said the strongest pressure for peace will come from big Japanese industrialists seeking to save their factories and other properties from being destroyed by American bombs and bullets.

LOSS OF $100,000 IS CAUSED BY WAUKEGAN FIRE

Damage in excess of $100,000 was caused by fire early today in the three floor building at 202 S. Genesee st., in the center of Waukegan's business section. The building was occupied by the Sample Furniture store and West Tire and Auto Supplies store.

The fire originated on the third floor, where furniture valued at $50,000 was stored, dipped into the second floor, also occupied by the furniture company, and threatened an adjacent rooming house at 209 Lake st., from which half a dozen tenants were driven.

Firemen from the Great Lakes naval training center and North Chicago responded to calls for assistance from the Waukegan fire department.

MOTHER OPENS DEFENSE TODAY IN BABY TORTURE

Mrs. Betty Jane Dybicz, 19, of 7102 Lowe av., who is charged with assault with intent to kill her infant son, Dennis, 5 months old, is scheduled to begin her defense today before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward and a jury of eight women and four men in Criminal court.

Assistant State's Atty. Edmund Grant said he will close the state's case shortly after opening the court session. He had not decided whether he would call the woman's husband, Chester, a war worker, as a witness.

FIVE BATTERIES STOLEN.

EX-WAR CHIEF TELLS CANADA TROOP SHORTAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 12.—Serious shortage of infantry reënforcements for the Canadian army overseas were reported tonight by J. L. Ralston, former minister of defense. Ralston's resignation from the government was accepted by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King on Nov. 1. Supporting his recommendation that men drafted for home defense be sent overseas, Ralston tonight issued a public statement.

He said that during his recent visit overseas he had found reënforcement pools in battle areas "had been so seriously depleted as not to insure the prompt replacement of casualties."

The former minister asserted that by the end of December a considerable shortage in infantry will have developed. "It appeared clear that enough volunteer personnel could not be made available to meet the need. An alternative was to reduce our commitments or break up units or formations," Ralston said. "I could not concur when trained home defense draftees were available."

SWEDEN FACES CRISIS IN NAZI WAR ZONE EDICT

Protests Bothnia Ship Ban But Caution Is Seen.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 12 (AP).—Germany's declaration that most of the Baltic and the Gulf of Bothnia was a war zone, in which all shipping would be attacked without warning, placed Sweden today closer to armed conflict than at any time in her five years of neutrality.

Despite Sweden's immediate and sharply worded protest placing responsibility for all untoward incidents on the Germans, authoritative sources took the view the government would adopt a cautious policy, bending every effort to safeguard the nation's neutrality.

There were suggestions in informed quarters that the Germans themselves did not want to antagonize the Swedes, whose navy is strong enough to demand considerable respect.

Paper Sees Naval Convoy.

On the other hand, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter declared editorially that the German measure, "which evidently was taken in desperation in this 11th hour of the war, will not deter the Swedish navy from guarding its own ships outside territorial waters."

[The German news agency DNB declared yesterday that shortly after the proclamation of a war zone a Finnish transport was sunk by the German air force.]

The proclaimed war zone left all Sweden's east coast free of danger to about the middle of the Gulf of Bothnia. The proscribed area includes Finland's Aaland Island, which lies closer to Sweden than to Finland.

All waters west of the Swedish island of Gotland are excluded from the danger area. This was interpreted as evidence of a German desire not to disrupt Swedish traffic between the island and the mainland.

Russian Trade in Doubt.

But the immediate effect was to halt both Swedish and Finnish traffic between the two countries and leave in doubt whether proposed travel from Stockholm to Leningrad in Russia would begin as planned in the immediate future.

Most informed Swedes took the view the proclamation was aimed directly at starving out Finland, but naval opinion was that a major objective was to prepare for a Russian move against Germany's north Baltic shores.

The Swedish naval staff announced today that the question of convoying ships to Finland depended upon developments and that for the present food would be carried only in Finnish vessels. The Swedish passenger line from Stockholm to Turku was halted, at least temporarily.

Convoy by Reds Urged.

Svenska Dagbladet suggested a Russian-Finnish convoy system might be adopted, while the Morgontidningen declared that "it is hoped the Swedish government will do all possible in the face of the German blockade to fulfill its promise to Finland."

The naval opinion that Germany may fear a Baltic invasion cited a Moscow declaration that landing operations on the "Normandy scale" could be expected now that most Baltic states were cleared of Germans.

EISENHOWER IN APPEAL FOR SIXTH WAR LOAN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—The following statement has just been received by cable from Gen. Eisenhower:

"Your assistance is needed and the most important job now for the people at home is to make the sixth war loan a success. To make sure of final victory we must redouble and sustain our efforts, both here and everywhere. The money must be raised and our men on all the fronts depend upon you. Contact your local war finance committee and join the home front army as a volunteer war bond worker. On behalf of your sons, brothers, husbands, and friends in this great war theater I request that you do your part to see that the sixth war loan is vastly oversubscribed.

FLIGHT NURSES WIN AWARDS FOR SERVICE IN ITALIAN AREA

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP).—Forty-four flight nurses and 48 flight surgeon technicians of the 802d and 807th medical evacuation squadrons, who have helped in aerial evacuation of 170,000 sick and wounded from forward areas since March, 1943, were awarded air medals today by Maj. Gen. John K. Cannon, commander of the 12th air force.

The 802d arrived in North Africa in February, 1943, and recently evacuated its 107,943d patient. The 807th arrived in this theater in September, 1943, and has evacuated more than 62,000 patients. The two squadrons fly in C-47 troop carriers.

Nurses given air medals included: Lieutenants Alberta E. Denny, Walshville, Ill.; Dorothy E. Lonergan, 555 Hickory st., Kankakee, Ill.; Clara M. Morrey, Hancock, Mich.; Martha Schramske, Boyceville, Wis.; Grace H. Stakeman, Terre Haute, Ind.; Edith A. Beldon, Indianapolis, Ind.; Alice B. Hogan, Clinton, Ia.; Regina M. Hunkele, Pontiac, Mich.; Doris E. Kirkpatrick, Waterman, Ill., and Anna Scheidorf, Westside, Ia.

LT. GEN. SULTAN TAKES COMMAND OF BURMA ARMY

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 12 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Sultan took command of Chinese armies in Burma officially today, succeeding Gen. Stilwell under direct deputization from Chiang Kai-shek. The action puts Sultan in command of all American and Chinese forces in the India-Burma theater.

Now under Sultan as commander of the northern combat area are the Chinese 1st army, the Chinese 6th army, the British 36th division and what Sultan described as a "considerable force" of Americans who soon will be ready to assist in the allies' southward drive.

These troops are equipped with flamethrowers, bazookas, and tanks in addition to the standard artillery and infantry weapons.

Quisling Again Requests Swedish Transit Rights

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 11 (AP).—Maj. Vidkun Quisling's puppet Norwegian government renewed tonight a request made two weeks ago that the Swedish government permit Norwegian evacuees from Narvik to travel by rail to Trondheim by way of Sweden, Oslo dispatches said. Sweden, it is understood, has taken the position that once the refugees had crossed the border they would be kept in Sweden.

RUSSIANS SEIZE BASTION 14 MI. FROM BUDAPEST

Tito's Partisans Storm Skoplje, Yugoslavia.

LONDON, Nov. 13 [Monday]—(AP).—Russian troops driving on Budapest, capital of Hungary, made gains from two directions yesterday, Moscow announced last night.

To the southeast, the Russians captured Monor, a stronghold 14 miles from the city, thus sweeping the Germans from almost all of the 50 mile Budapest-Szolnok railway. Farther to the east and a little north, they fanned out from Ujszasz, junction point on a secondary railway line, advanced 11 miles, and took Farmos. This put them 30 miles from the capital in that area.

Sixty-five miles northeast of Budapest the soviet troops captured Mezokovesd, a six-way road hub on the railway to Miskolc. This gave the Russians firm control of a 25 mile section of the main artery linking Germans at Budapest to axis troops in Eastern Slovakia.

Tito's Men Storm Skoplje.

A Yugoslav broadcast by Marshal Tito's headquarters said his troops were storming Skoplje, Yugoslavia's sixth city, on the Belgrade-Athens railway 70 miles north of the Greek frontier, after investing it on three sides.

Skoplje, a city of 65,000, protects the southern corridor thru which axis troops threatened with entrapment have been fleeing.

Both the Yugoslav bulletin and Berlin broadcasts said large numbers of Russian troops were pouring across the Danube near Apatin, Yugoslav town 120 miles south of Budapest, moving westward to flank the Hungarian capital and to head off the German retreat from the south.

"Mighty Column" Moves.

A dispatch to the Moscow newspaper Pravda said a "mighty column" of the 3d Ukraine army was moving thru northern Yugoslavia, in the direction of southern Hungary, "where in a raging battle the fate of Germany's last ally is being decided."

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Germany's broadcast military summary said yesterday:

"In Hungary, north of the Czegled-Szolnok railway and in the region of Mezokovesd, strong soviet infantry and tank forces resumed their attacks on a broad front. German and Hungarian formations are engaged in heavy fighting with the advancing enemy.

"Between northern Macedonia and central Syrmia [in Yugoslavia] successful fighting resulted in the consolidation of our positions."

CHICAGOAN 1ST TO BOMB NAZIS, LETTER CLAIMS

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Members of the first American bomber crew that flew over Nazi Europe, wherever they may be, must get particular satisfaction tonight from realizing that the 2,000 pounds of TNT dropped June 29, 1942, was the beginning of a load of destruction which 28 months later would equal almost 640,000 tons. This story never has been told before.

Lt. Bernard L. Bell of Chicago, Ill., claimed in a letter to the Associated Press to have been the first American bombardier to toggle a switch over Europe in this war. He was flying in a British plane with a crew that included Capt. Charles C. Kegelman of El Reno, Okla., pilot, and Sgt. Robert L. Coley, Fredonia, Kas.

While training with the R. A. F. Bell said, "the boys reached a fine edge." Their British friends said they could borrow a medium bomber and make the raid over Hazebrouck in occupied France if they promised not to tell. They made the raid and didn't tell—until now.

R. A. F. BOMBERS ATTACK GERMAN OIL PRODUCTION

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—R. A. F. heavy bombers, attacking "in strength," pressed the allied air offensive against Germany's oil production last night with raids on plants at Harburg and Dortmund, the air ministry announced today.

R. A. F. targets last night were the port and oil refineries at Harburg, south of Hamburg, and a synthetic oil plant at Dortmund in the Ruhr. Mosquito bombers and fighters of the R. A. F. ranged over northern and northwestern Germany last night, attacking transportation and other targets.

Allied Planes Over Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 12 (AP).—Large formations of foreign aircraft crossed western Sweden early today and moved off into Norway after Swedish aircraft fire was begun, the Swedish defense staff announced. It was suggested here that the planes may have been engaged in a new allied raid on the German battleship Tirpitz, attacked two weeks ago near Tromsoe.

BRITISH ADVANCE IN FORLI AREA; BRIDGE CANAL

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP).—Troops of the British 8th army have established a small bridgehead across the Nuovo canal, running north from Forli, against strong German resistance, allied headquarters announced today. Farther north, about six miles southwest of Ravenna, other 8th army units moved into Gambellara, headquarters said. Along the 5th army front in north central Italy American doughboys made slight gains.

German outposts east of the Nuovo canal and north of Forli were being cleaned out methodically, but mines were retarding progress there of British troops. Heavy fighting took place at a crossroads just west of Forli.

The German air force made its strongest appearance of weeks in an 11 plane attack near Loiano. Two of the planes were downed.

STRONG FRENCH ARMY PLEDGED BY CHURCHILL

Tells Paris British Will Help to Build It.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Prime Minister Churchill of Britain told the Paris committee of liberation at a reception today that the British were going to help build a strong French army, which he said was necessary for the "equilibrium and sanity of Europe."

Churchill proclaimed his faith in the French army.

"Mechanical deficiencies have to be considered in appraising what happened four years ago," he went on. "What happened to France would have happened to England had it not been for the English channel. You can be confident in the future of the French army. British policy is, and will be, that a powerful French army is necessary."

Early Victory Possible.

Speaking in French with a schoolboy accent, Churchill said he had never lost faith in the French during the German occupation.

"Now I understand how you want to play the greatest possible part in this war, and we will help you, but we can't keep the war going for that purpose," he said humorously.

The prime minister asserted Germany might be defeated within six months.

"We will do all we can to enable France to play a part in world affairs again," he said.

Churchill admonished the French to preserve order and unity, saying: "There is one word above all—unity—at this time when all the forces of your nation must be directed to support stability and authority.

"France must have peace in the future and protection against renewal of the horrors which it has known."

French and British statesmen continued their conversations aimed at restoring the cordial entente between the two countries. Stress was placed on the possibility of furnishing more arms for French troops to enable France to take a greater part in the war.

Ovations Greet Churchill.

Churchill, to whom the entire French press paid homage for his faith in victory at dark moments, was the most popular figure in Paris. Wherever he appeared he was given an ovation by street crowds.

Most of the French press viewed Churchill's visit as emphasizing the necessity of Franco-British union in the form of a close alliance, but the resistance newspaper Franc Tireur disclosed fear of a British scheme to form a bloc of west Europe powers including England, France, Belgium, Holland, and possibly Norway.

"We want no bloc, no alliance, no union of three or four western powers," the paper said. "What we want is the organization and coördination of a society of Europe which will include all its members without exception."

The press expressed great satisfaction with France's new position as a member of the European advisory commission, which will fix peace terms for Germany. Some said Russia took the initiative in getting the seat for France.

ABSENTEE VOTE COUNT GIVES DONNELL EDGE

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 12 (AP).—An analysis made here today of the absentee vote thus far counted in Missouri's senatorial race between Gov. Donnell and Atty. Gen. McKittrick, and the almost complete vote at the regular polls last Tuesday, indicate that unless present trends change, Missouri's present Republican governor will go to the senate by a majority of about 4,000 votes.

The indicated margin of victory is so slight in the total of about 1,540,000 votes that it unquestionably will require an official canvass to determine the winner.

The absentee count from 100 of 114 counties gave Donnell 24,750 and McKittrick 29,172, which added to the 735,387 votes Donnell polled at the regular polls and the 726,812 McKittrick received there, gives Donnell a present lead of 760,137 votes to McKittrick's 755,984.

NAZIS DRESS AS WOMEN TO TRAP BRITISH IN ITALY

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Germans pulled a new stunt in the fighting near the Ronco river in northern Italy yesterday. A British 8th army scout car went forward to question a number of women civilians. As it approached, a bazooka opened fire from a nearby house and hit the car. The "women" scampered into the house from which the fire came. They were German soldiers wearing dresses.

BLOOD DONATED IN U. S. TO REACH LEYTE IN 2 DAYS

Navy to Start Aerial Shuttle Service.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 13 (AP).—Life saving whole blood will be available to wounded service men as far away as Leyte Island 48 hours after being drawn from a donor in San Francisco under a new aero-medical program being inaugurated here this week.

The plan, incorporating use of a blood preservative, a lightweight portable refrigerator, and the speed of navy transports, was announced today by the 12th naval district.

Whole blood, as distinguished from plasma, long has been needed in combat areas. Plasma may save a man during the initial shock period after he has been wounded, but it fails when too great a loss of blood reduces oxygen in the system below a critical point.

Loses Value Within Week.

A major problem in supplying whole blood has been its perishable nature, because normally it loses its value within a week.

A solution has been developed which gives blood 75 per cent of its normal efficiency 21 days after being drawn from a donor. This, coupled with the invention of a lightweight refrigerator which weighs only slightly more than the blood it carries, has made it possible to ship the fluid safely over longer distances.

Beginning this week, a regular daily schedule will take the portable refrigerators and their contents from the San Francisco bay area to Pearl Harbor and from there to island bases farther west.

Banks to Be Available.

An army or navy medical officer at an advanced base will be able to radio to the nearest refrigerator bank for added supplies whenever he foresees a shortage.

Only "O" or general type blood is suitable for use in the new program.

Operation of the program is under navy jurisdiction, but the navy will work with the army in providing for whole blood needs.

DEWEYS ARRIVE AT GEORGIA SPA FOR VACATION

Installed in a hotel, he said he was here for a rest, and that politics was "out" for the duration of his stay.

A CHICAGO VET TELLS HOW FAR TO TRUST JAPS

Pvt. Frank T. Polacek of 5353 S. Richmond st., who has returned to the United States after 28 months of service in the Southwest Pacific, asserted in Washington yesterday that Japs may be trusted approximately the same distance that a G. I. can toss a cannon.

"Five of them came across to our company on Bougainville one day after we had made a counter-attack," he said. "The first one was waving a white handkerchief, but the other four carried their rifles. We yelled at them to throw down their weapons but they kept on coming with them. We'd had enough experience with Japs by that time, so we shot the four who wouldn't drop their rifles."

The handkerchief bearing Jap surrendered, however, and next day urged other Japs over a loud speaker to give up, that further resistance was futile, Polacek said. "Apparently he didn't carry much weight, for none of them surrendered."

Pvt. Polacek, who is 25, was inducted May 29, 1941, and went overseas a year later. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Polacek.

to be in American hands Saturday afternoon, but officers in command of the assault troops kept their fingers crossed. For days the Japanese forces entrenched on either side of the ridge repulsed repeated American efforts to control the lofty battle field and the road that crosses it toward Ormoc.

American tanks, supported by mortar fire, plowed into a pocket of resistance on the south side of the ridge yesterday and killed 100 Japanese holding the area, which controls the road. Five tanks were damaged, but managed to withdraw. Another had to be abandoned, but the crew escaped.

One company on a flank position last night detected and killed a band of 58 Japanese trying to get inside our line with dynamite. They were trying to blow up some American artillery positions.

Planes Damage U. S. Ships.

ABOARD A PT TENDER IN SAN PEDRO BAY, Leyte, Nov. 13 (AP).—Japanese fighters and dive bombers made a spectacular midafternoon vengeance strike against American shipping in San Pedro bay today. In groups of four or five, the Japanese planes buzzed over American ships, then dove to the attack thru clouds of anti-aircraft fire.

American Lightnings and Thunderbolt fighters circled high above their own ack-ack to swoop on the Japanese planes as they retreated from the bombing area.

From the bridge of this ship, it was possible to see five different attacks during a five minute period. One enemy plane scored a direct hit on the deck of a ship, which burst into flames. A moment later a second ship was hit on the stern. While PT boats and LCI fire boats rushed to assist the burning ship, four more enemy planes peeled off for attacks.

IWO ISLE SHELLED: TOKYO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

An "undisclosed number" of American warships bombarded Iwo Island, 750 miles south of Tokyo, for the fourth time in the Pacific war Saturday night [Japanese time], and allied aircraft blasted Shanghai the next day in the "longest air attack" of the conflict, enemy broadcasts reported yesterday.

The Domei news agency said the American warships opened their big guns on Iwo after 20 Liberators bombed the island in a daylight raid.

The attack on Shanghai, second consecutive assault on that China port to be announced by enemy broadcasts, was reported by the Nazi transocean agency. The German dispatch said clouds made the bombings inaccurate and claimed anti-aircraft fire "prevented the raiders from approaching all strategical points."

Japanese broadcasts reported that B-29s raided Shanghai Saturday. Washington has announced Super Fort raids that day on Nanking and Omura, Kyushu Island.

New Advances Against Japs

STORM TOSSES B-29S AROUND IN RAID ON JAPAN

Crewmen Bounce and Get Airsick.

A 20TH U. S. BOMBER BASE, China, Nov. 11 [Delayed]—(AP):—Super Fortresses raided the Omura aircraft center in the Japanese homeland today in the teeth of a hurricane so violent that the big bombers were stood on their wing tips. Some of the attacking force was shunted off for blows at Nanking on the Chinese mainland.

Tremendous winds over Omura on the island of Kyushu tossed the giant planes about like feathers, and so severe was the stress that rivets popped, Maj. Donald Roberts, Los Angeles, reported.

Flyers Batted Around.

A sizable force took off to destroy all structures left standing at Omura after the successful raid of Oct. 25.

After the take-off the weather became ominous and a radio message ordered the Japan bound formations to strike the freight yards and docks of Nanking. About half the formation never heard the order and flew on to Omura, bombing by instruments.

Capt. Raymond M. Moore, Detroit, Mich., said much of the outbound trip was "thru icing conditions, the worst I ever saw" and "crewmen in the rear of the plane were batted around like tennis balls and all got air sick."

Moore also reported that rivets popped in considerable number from the leading edge of the plane, but the planes weathered the storm.

Damage Nanking Docks.

Weather cleared near Nanking, and bomber crews on that run said the port and rail yards were heavily damaged, with several ships at the riverside docks left flaming.

Altho fighter opposition was weak, a few crews reported seeing a new type of twin engined Japanese fighter which was very fast. These made numerous passes but were driven off. Anti-aircraft fire was reported meager and inaccurate.

BOMBER CREW BAGS TRANSPORT, CRASHES; SAVED

TWENTY-FOURTH CORPS HDQ., Leyte, P. I., Nov. 10 [Delayed].—(AP).—The entire crew of a bomber which had just sunk a Japanese transport off Ormoc was rescued within a minute and a half after it crash landed 100 yards off shore here today.

The B-25, its landing gear shot away and one wing riddled, came in toward the beach with one motor dead. Amphibian tractors reached the spot almost as soon as the bomber hit the water.

Within five minutes two of the injured flyers were receiving medical treatment and Capt. Charles G. Stauffacher of Sedalia, Mo., the medical officer, said the speed undoubtedly saved the pilot's life.

Yank Flyers Honor Dead at Chapel They Rebuilt

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—In memory of their dead and missing comrades, members of an American Flying Fortress group assembled at St. Andrews parish in Quidenham today and stood before a 14th century chapel they raised $2,400 to rebuild. A memorial book contains the names of comrades lost in action and a stained glass window depicts an American airman in flying togs looking toward a figure of Christ.

FIRE ROUTS 10 TENANTS.

A rubbish fire on the rear porch of a building at 3250 N. Albany av. spread to the roof of an adjoining building at 3254 early yesterday, causing damage of $1,500 and driving 10 persons from their apartments.

ZIONISTS PLAN FOR RETURN OF JEWISH VETS

Chicago Leaders to Help 50,000 After the War.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Leaders of the Chicago Zionist organization met yesterday in the Hamilton hotel to lay plans for the return to civilian life of 50,000 Chicago Jewish service men and women. Thru the newly founded youth commission of the organization, provision will be made for rehabilitation where necessary and for reassimilation into business, professional, and industrial activities.

Samuel F. Jacobson, president of the organization, principal speaker at yesterday's conference, told of the youth commission's foundation of 40 youth clubs to date, and the projected Louis D. Brandeis camp for vacation opportunities for youths.

"No Self Pity."

"We who have remained behind the fighting armies have assumed the responsibility for the remnants of our people in Europe," Jacobson said. "They are absolutely destitute of any material means and are unable to reconstruct their homes or lives on the ashes of the Nazi conflagration.

"He is not the cringing, frightened Jew. He walks erect and is satisfied with the knowledge that for every Jewish life extracted by the axis inspired Arab, 5,000 Jews will remain alive and enjoy the freedom that comes in the knowledge that he is building a Jewish national homeland in Palestine."

Tells of Fund Plans.

Samuel Walberg, chairman of the Chanukah [feast of lights] festival, told of fund raising plans for the youth movement at a $25 a plate dinner at the Stevens hotel, Dec. 13.

Herman A. Nieberger, chairman of the organization's Fifth War Loan drive, announced that the 3 million dollars worth of bonds sold thru the organization was awarded the highest citation by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

SENATE GROUP URGES WRECKING NAZI INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP).—A senate military subcommittee said today the German aggressors "are already deploying their economic reserves thruout the world in preparation for a third attempt at world domination." The committee, headed by Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], made this assertion in a report on the effect of cartels.

"To crush German imperialism permanently and thus permit a peaceful and democratic Germany to arise, the structure and control of German industry must be so altered that it cannot serve again the purposes of war," the committee asserted, adding:

"The monopolies and cartels which are the artery of supply in the Nazi system must be broken up. Punishment of 10,000 of the leading imperialistic-minded German industrialists will be more effective than punishment of 1,000,000 Nazi underlings."

It urged the dismantling of all munitions industries, and removal of metallurgical and chemical industries.

ZIONIST BLAMES TERRORISTS FOR GUINNESS DEATH

New York, Nov. 12 (AP).—Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Zionist Organization of America, today said the murder of Walter E. Guinness [Lord Moyne], British resident minister in the middle east, was perpetrated by a small band of terrorists and "lawless elements" in Palestine.

"Responsible Zionist bodies and their leaders everywhere condemn these irresponsible lawless elements, who are a menace to the security of the Jewish community of Palestine," Dr. Goldstein said at a luncheon honoring Albert D. Schanzer, New York state commissioner of appeals.

The Zionist leader described the "extraordinary contribution of Palestine Jewry to the war effort" as the "normal expression of Jewish Palestine."

ALL ARMY SHOW TO RECRUIT 1,000 PLANE WORKERS

An all army show will be held in the Schurz High school auditorium next Saturday and Sunday to recruit men and women to fill an immediate need for 1,000 workers at the Douglas Aircraft company plant at Higgins rd. and Devon av., to help make C-54 cargo planes which army officers say now are as urgently needed as B-29 Super Forttresses. The show will include an army band, singers, dancers, trained war dogs, and other attractions. Free tickets will be obtainable at war man power commission offices on the north, northwest, and west sides, in Oak Park, and at the Douglas company employment offices.

HUNT CONVICTED FLYER WHO FLED IN STOLEN PLANE

Selma, Ala., Nov. 12 [Special].—The public relations office at Craig field said today that an AT-6 advanced training plane which crashed yesterday near New Orleans has been identified as a plane flown away from the field without clearance Friday night.

Robert G. Kaslow.

The plane took off without lights and roared into the night about 15 minutes after Robert G. Kaslow, 20, a former flying officer, had escaped from the field's guardhouse. Kaslow was awaiting transfer to a federal penitentiary to begin serving a 30 year sentence on eight charges, including forgery and attempted murder. Search is being made for him.

Craig field officers said a parachute also is missing from the field. They said they believe that Kaslow equipped himself with a parachute and then appropriated the plane. No body was found in or near the crashed plane and it is presumed the pilot parachuted to safety.

JOHN WARNER says "DON'T GAMBLE"

with BALDNESS!"

You cannot afford to. Once your hair is gone, there's no second chance because baldness is permanent. Ask a bald headed man what he'd give to regain his natural head of hair, then figure out for yourself if it wouldn't pay you many times over to preserve the hair you now have.

A free scalp examination and consultation with John E. Warner will quickly help you to determine your chances of keeping your hair. NO CASE IS EVERY ACCEPTED FOR TREATMENT UNLESS BENEFICIAL RESULTS ARE REASONABLY CERTAIN.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

JAPS BREAK INTO LIUCHOW, SITE OF U. S. AIR BASE

Chinese Battle Foe in City's Suburbs.

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Chinese high command admitted tonight that radio contact with Kweilin had been broken since Friday and that the Japanese were engaged in brisk fighting in the suburbs of Liuchow, site of an American air base.

The high command acknowledged another Japanese success in the loss of Liucheng, 19 miles northwest of Liuchow on the railway to Kwelchow province, one of the main lines of supply into Liuchow.

On Verge of Junction.

Japanese forces which drove into Kwangsi province from the north appeared on the verge of a junction with those which invaded from Kwangtung province on the east. Such a junction would assure the Japanese of an all-land road from Hongkong to Manchuria.

Liuchow was in peril of encirclement as the Japanese who overran Liucheng struck southwestward toward a union with other forces from the east which seized Laipin, 45 miles south of Liuchow, and sped on 20 miles north.

Japs Reach Chienkiang.

Another Japanese column driving west reached the outskirts of Chienkiang, 55 miles southwest of Lieuchow on the highway leading to the old provincial capital of Yungning [Nanning]. This column was being engaged hotly, the high command said.

Before communications with Kweilin were broken, violent street fighting was in progress.

A bulletin from the headquarters of Maj. Gen. Wedemeyer, chief of staff to Chiang Kai-shek, said Liberator bombers sank a Japanese destroyer and a small freighter in the South China sea Friday night.

ALL FURNITURE OF TOWN BROKEN IN JAP REVENGE

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 12 (AP).—The 6,000 residents of the little town of Basey on Samar Island, were coming back to their homes today to find the Japanese left no single stick of furniture unbroken. It was their payment for fleeing from Japanese control and fighting them in no-quarter guerrilla warfare.

The story of Basey and surrounding towns which have a total population of about 31,000, was told by Capt. Sidney C. Jenkins, former Portland Oregonian reporter, and Capt. Virgil Ashcraft of Newark, O., both members of the army's civil administration unit.

"When a force of 200 Japs entered their town on Oct. 24, 1943, the townspeople packed everything they could carry on their backs and slipped away into the mountains," Jenkins related. "They did an amazing thing, they moved their municipal government and its records into the mountains, and while the women and children rustled food, all able bodied men and boys over 12 fought the Japanese."

'SOCKS WILL GET YOU CIGARETS,' BUYER IS TOLD

Complaints being made in connection with the cigaret shortage have their humorous side, Sam L. Lane, tobacco price specialist for the metropolitan OPA, said yesterday.

One woman complained that a man had pushed her out of the cigaret line at a department store and wanted to know what to do about it. Another said she had been forced to buy a pair of men's socks in order to get a package of cigarets. She added that she didn't have a husband. A south side tavern required her to buy a drink before they would sell her cigarets, a woman caller said.

Investigation is made of all bona fide complaints of price violations, Lane said. OPA officials will meet at 2:30 p. m. today with executives of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association who have asserted they believed cigaret wholesalers have been favoring retail dealers who pay lower rates of discount.

M'CAMPBELL OF THE NAVY BAGS HIS 32D PLANE

ABOARD A CARRIER WITH THE 3D FLEET OFF THE PHILIPPINES, Nov. 7 [Delayed]—(AP).—The navy's flying ace, Comdr. David McCampbell of Los Angeles, has boosted his total of Japanese planes destroyed in the air to 32, putting him nearer to army Maj. Richard Bong's record.

[Maj. Bong ran his string to 36 by shooting down two planes over Ormoc yesterday.]

McCampbell, 34 year old Annapolis graduate, made his record while serving as commander of the senior group in action in the Pacific. His group has shot 289 planes out of the air, far over the mark for any other carrier outfit.

McCampbell got his last two planes in a sweep over Manila Nov. 5. His previous 30 were shot down since last June 11. He got nine in an hour and 35 minutes off the Philippines Oct. 24.

3,000,000 CHILD WORKERS FOUND IN U. S. INDUSTRY

New York, Nov. 12 (AP).—A reversal of the pre-war trend away from child labor was reported today by the national child labor committee, which said the "flood of young children coming into industry has been impossible to check because of existing weaknesses in state laws." The reversal began with the war, the committee said, and "has reduced high school enrollment by 1,000,000 students, turning it back to the 1934 level, and raised the number of employed 14 to 17 year olds to 3,000,000."

WANG CHING-WEI DIES IN JAPAN; WAS PUPPET PRESIDENT OF CHINA

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP).—Wang Ching-Wei, 62, president and premier of the puppet government of China at Nanking, died Friday in a Japanese hospital of diabetes, the Tokyo radio announced today.

Wang Ching-Wei.

The death of the Chinese Quisling was announced by Japan's Premier Kuniaki Koiso. The broadcast said Wang had been in Japan since March for medical treatment.

The announcement said Chen Kung-Po, former president of the legislative council of the Nanking government, had been named "acting president" to succeed Wang. The broadcast said Chen also would take over the premiership and the chairmanship of the military council, posts held by Wang. Wang at one time was foreign minister in the central government of China before deserting to the Japanese in 1939. He was a protege of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, founder of modern China.

CHINESE REDS' LEADER RETURNS TO CHUNGKING

Hope for Compromise with Chiang Grows.

'Victory in Sight'

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 12 (AP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in a speech here today declared: "Victory is in sight."

"We believe that after this war there will emerge an effective guarantee for international peace and security and means will be found for economic coöperation and mutual help among nations," he said.

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 12 (AP).—Fresh but still dim hopes of an eventual compromise between the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and the Chinese Communists flickered in Chungking today with the unexpected return of Gen. Chou En-lai who formerly was stationed here as representative of the Communists.

The general arrived on Friday from Yenan, Communist administrative center in North China. His return was unexpected as only recently he gave interviewers in Yenan the impression he believed it would be useless to come back.

Relations May Be Resumed.

Generally it was believed his arrival presages resumption of negotiations between the government and the Communists which broke off last Oct. 2 after four months of discussion without agreement on even the slightest details.

The arrival of Gen. Chou more than offsets the sudden departure last week for Yenan of Lin Tsu-han, chairman of the Communist administration, who had headed the delegation in talks with the government. [Eighty-eight words were censored from this dispatch].

MAY ENTER GOVERNMENT.

Subjects of the Chinese central government's negotiations with the Communists presumably have included some possible plan to give the Communists representation in the government, removal of the blockade by Chiang's forces around the Communist areas in North China and related subjects.

At the time of the recall of Gen. Stilwell as American military commander in the China-Burma-India theater, an Associated Press dispatch from New Delhi, India, said American government representatives had expressed disappointment over failure of the Chinese government to come to some agreement with the Communists so that they and the central government could be brought into a united front against the Japanese. Reorganization of the Chinese government was urged.

Last Sunday Chiang, in a message to the Associated Press, said "prospects of effective and close Chinese-American military, political, and economic coöperation are now excellent."

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

Let Them Vote!

Louisiana seems to have started something. Some months ago the Louisiana legislature adopted a measure to suspend all so-called "local option" Prohibition elections—"until the boys come home from this war and have their say about it."

Now other states are following suit.

Recently in Colorado an interim subcommittee of the State legislature recommended that all local option elections be postponed for the duration. Minnesota and Indiana are reported to be interested in deferring voting on local option until the boys come home. Delegates to the Nebraska State Convention of the American Legion, in August, adopted a recommendation that the people of the State vote against a proposed Prohibition law in November. This is in support of the policy established by the Legion during its 1942 National convention, recommending that "all action on the question of prohibition be deferred until the end of the war, so that those men and women in the service may have an opportunity to fully discuss, consider and vote on the question when they return." Then came the Bearcat Post of the American Legion of Minnesota, recommending to the legislature of that State, which meets in January, that it enact legislation embodying the Louisiana principle

Down in Texas, the Lone Star State, an interesting recent experience comes to light: Tarrant County, Texas, voted dry during the first World War, when so many of its voters were absent. This same county a short time ago voted again—and rejected Prohibition—and local observers say that many people voted against the proposal to make the county dry, when servicemen were unable to have their "say."

It seems that we do learn from experience. It seems, too, that the several polls and tests among members of the armed forces in absentia have had their effect upon those on the home front whose responsibility it is to deliver back to our boys, when they come home, the way of life they fought to preserve.

Cuban Contribution... Rumba

Peoples of many lands dwell here . . . French, Portuguese, Spanish, Dutch . . . people who express their ambitions, hopes, emotions, and passions in an interpretive Cuban folk-dance known as Rumba.

It's a dance set to the rhythm of Clavs, Maracas, Gourds, and Bonga Drums . . . with all the beat and surge of vigor and life and the joy of living.

This is the Cuban Rumba which has become so popular in America. Today's big-name bands are playing the latest Rumba tunes, and accomplished dancers must now be as familiar with the imported Cuban dance as with our own Fox Trot.

Dale Dance instructors can teach you how to Rumba expertly in a very short time. Stop in for a free trial lesson. Find out, too, how moderate the cost. Our Private Studios are open seven days a week for your convenience.

THE NEW AUTARCHY.

William C. Redfield, who was the nation's first secretary of commerce, wrote a book in 1926 which he called "Dependent America." As a disciple of Wilson, Mr. Redfield sought to demonstrate to the nation our interdependence with the rest of the world in the matter of industrial raw materials. He listed 200 or more products that we have to import.

The case that he made will always have its merits. America can never become wholly self-sufficient. But in his position in the cabinet during the first war Mr. Redfield witnessed a phenomenon that should have modified his views more profoundly than it did, a phenomenon that has been repeated on a vastly wider scale in this one. That was the ingenuity of American scientists and technicians in developing, not merely substitutes, but new and better materials under the urge of war necessity.

The 1914 blockade prevented the United States from getting the German chemicals and dyes on which we had relied. Necessity, aided by seized German patents, gave birth to an American chemical industry which by 1939 was fully as ingenious and more extensive than Germany's. Both Germany and the allies suffered from shortages of nitrates during the first World war. The various processes for extracting them from the air have since made all nations virtually independent of Chile's natural supply.

Curiously enough, the first three products on Mr. Redfield's list of those we must get from faraway sources were shellac, jute, and rubber. Every one knows the story of synthetic rubber. Eighteen years ago he could write truthfully, "Serious attempts have been made to produce a shellac substitute, but without successful results." In this war the principal sufferers from the shellac shortage were the makers of phonograph records. Before Pearl Harbor synthetic resins had displaced shellac for most uses as a protective covering.

Those resin coverings are made elastic by the use of soybean oil, once imported from China, as a plasticizer. In the last two decades the soybean has been transplanted from the plains of Manchuria to hundreds of thousands of acres of the prairies of Illinois. American mechanized farming can more than compete with coolie labor in growing this crop.

Mr. Redfield mentioned our dependence on Japanese silk for parachutes and powder bags in big guns. Today the flyers fighting the Japs wear nylon parachutes, and substitutes have been found, also, for powder bags. He mentioned the dependence of Chicago's packing-town on millions of yards of natural sausage casings, collected all over the globe. Today artificial casings are manufactured a few blocks from the slaughter houses, and the dependence has been correspondingly reduced tho not yet eliminated.

The necessities of the present war have made permanent additions to American technology. The American optical industry, which even in the interim between the two wars could not have survived against German competition without heavy tariff protection, today is outstripping the world in the production of precision optical devices. The job was done Detroit fashion. Whereas German optical plants employ operators skilled by decades of experience, our production methods were broken down so that untrained workers could be taught to do a single job adequately within a few weeks.

Until a few years ago we had to go to England or Sweden for certain fine, specialized steels. Automobile valve springs, for instance, were made of Swedish steel. Today they're made in Ohio, and will continue to be made there after the war. We were once largely dependent upon England for sewing needles. New American steels, American automatic machinery, and American optical instruments, which have become as important in industry for the inspection and control of products as they are in warfare, should make it possible for us to make most of our own needles.

It is not only in war industry that necessity has mothered new and better products. The end of Paris fashions in 1940 was a potent stimulant to American designers. Their success in founding a new industry is testified to by the exhibits in THE TRIBUNE'S annual fashion show.

French wines will never have the near monopoly that they once had on American tables. California vineyardists and vintners have met war time shortages of imports with table wines that compare most favorably with all but the noblest of the imported wines, and at far lower prices. New York should eventually produce dry sherries able to compete with Spanish Amontillados. Middle western dairymen are reproducing most of the famous cheeses of Europe. When war time demands slacken sufficiently for them to age their products properly, they will have little to fear from French, Italian, and Swiss competition.

War and the preparation for war stimulates the conscious drive toward national self-sufficiency that goes by the name of autarchy. Autarchy, old style, has a deservedly bad name among economists. It has meant high tariffs, quota barriers, and high prices for inferior substitutes. The laboratories of America are making a new, war stimulated autarchy in this country, one that will endure without political protection. It is the autarchy born of better products at lower prices.

NO JOB FOR US.

Britain is enrolling a large staff of civil servants to take over the leading role in the post-war administration of occupied countries in Europe. It is also reported that members of parliament are being recruited to go to Germany to reorganize the civil and political life of the people who are left behind the firing line.

This is a job which Americans are glad to leave to the British. To rule another country against its will is not in our tradition and we have no genius for it. We stayed in the Philippines only to prepare the Filipinos for self-government, and now that our army has gone back there to drive the Japs out, a Filipino government has gone with it to assume the administration of the islands as an independent nation. Our few experiments in intervention and military government in the Caribbean and Central America convinced us that we would do better to let the natives work out their own destiny.

The British, who have for so long made careers for the younger sons of the aristocracy by placing them in posts with colonial administrations, are right at home when it comes to ordering foreigners around. It is a job which no self-respecting American would want and it is altogether desirable that it go to the British by default.

GERMANY'S FUTURE.

Everybody is agreed that Germany is to be disarmed after this war; everybody, that is, except the Germans whose wishes in the matter, whatever they may be, are not going to be consulted. Everybody, likewise, is agreed that the Nazi party is to be liquidated and its leaders, together with an indefinite number of other war criminals, are to be put to death. There is no quarrel in principle, either, with the idea that some kind of a watch must be maintained over Germany to see that she does not again become a menace to the world's peace.

Proposals to prevent the recurrence of German aggression by dismembering the reich have not been so universally accepted. The creation of a number of smallish states, it is argued, would be of no avail unless their economic cooperation was prohibited, and if that were done, the principal continental market for raw materials from all over the world and the principal European source of manufactured goods would be disrupted, with resultant injury to everybody concerned, both sellers and buyers.

The debate continues between those who would break up Germany into three, four, or more independent states and those who oppose this plan. Meanwhile there are numerous signs to indicate that a third course may be adopted: a whittling down of Germany by giving to the neighboring nations fairly sizable provinces on the perimeter of the reich.

Poland has already been offered East Prussia by Stalin, with Mr. Churchill's approval and probably Mr. Roosevelt's as well. Various proposals have been made for reconstituting an independent Austria with somewhat larger territory than was left to her after the last war. France may get the Rhine frontier that was hers in the days of the Grand Monarch. Belgium might be given a little something and Holland, seeking compensation for the loss of farm land when the dikes were opened, is thinking of taking her compensation across the German frontier. The claim will be difficult to resist by anybody, and least of all, by the Germans. Denmark can probably be persuaded to accept a change in her southern frontier which would give her additional territory in Schleswig-Holstein and perhaps restore the frontier as it stood some 80 years ago, before Bismarck altered it, to Prussia's advantage, by war.

The change in the Dutch frontier would defeat its purpose unless the Germans were required to get off the land to make way for Hollanders whose farms and villages have been destroyed; but most of the other changes might be achieved without prejudice to the Germans now living in the areas under discussion. In effect, then, the population of the reich would be reduced by several millions, perhaps 6 or 8 millions in all. Germany would still be more populous than France or Britain but the disparity would be somewhat reduced. There are those who believe that the Germans in the border provinces would accept these arrangements without too much protest in the conviction that their lot would be a good deal less painful outside a defeated Germany than within it.

The question remains whether the economic objections to a thorogoing dismemberment of Germany apply equally to this whittling down process. The German workshop would not be seriously disorganized by the proposed losses of territory to Austria, Holland, or Denmark. Germany might actually be benefited by the loss of East Prussia to Poland for the protection of the agricultural interests there has confused German economic policy and promoted internal conflict for many years. If Germany were forced to give up her mineral resources not only in the Rhineland but also, as has been suggested, in Silesia [to Poland or a reconstituted Czechoslovakia or both] the economic dislocation of Europe and the rest of the world might be a good deal more severe.

There surely is no moral objection to exacting payment from the reich for the injuries done her neighbors by her invasions and occupations. No matter what fate awaits Germany, it can be said that she asked for it. In arranging the peace, the allies need be restrained only by the desire to organize Europe in a fashion that will promote a stable peace and prosperity. Anything that may be done to Germany within that formula will be satisfactory.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. A niblick should be associated with which of these men?
   Hagen Sinatra Culbertson Dempsey
2. The age of a rotund male would most likely be 16 years 27 years 36 years 56 years
3. Methyl alcohol is derived from which one of these original sources?
   Grain Molasses Wood Sugar beets
4. Which word is inappropriate in this general grouping? Tanning Puddling Bessemer Pig
5. A needle is associated primarily with which disease?
   Tuberculosis Diphtheria Malaria Diabetes
6. This is an analogy problem in which the first two terms in the section are related to each other in some way. Try to select one of the words in black face type which has a similar relationship to the third word of the section. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Denim : Scythe :: Surplice : Sugar, Solo, Bible, Scalpel. [b] Indianapolis : Barney Oldfield :: Rome : Caesar, Nero, Ben Hur, Pilate. [c] Peas : Puree :: Tree : House, Paper, Pulp, Fire. [d] Bobbin : Spinner :: Sewing : Hunting, Engineering, Cooking, Fishing. [e] 90° : 30° :: Right angle : Acute, Obtuse, Straight, Central.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

A BIT OF PRIZE MONEY.

Jensen of Denmark wins this year's Nobel prize in literature, and the news falls into a war-torn world with the faint smack of a raindrop kissing the Pacific ocean. Yet this column gets a mild kick out of the announcement, for it happens that 20 years ago we gave Mr. Jensen shelf space for the three volumes of his masterwork, "The Long Journey," and have kept them at hand, occasionally dusted, as dignified curiosities in the field of the modern novel. Perhaps this qualifies us as a long range Nobel prize picker, altho it is a job we have never craved.

* * *

"The Long Journey," published in translation in 1923-'24 and unread, we fear, except by book reviewers, is a massive job of fiction in Wagnerian cycle style. As issued in Denmark it ran to six separate books and titles, connected by a historical and racial theme, and it ranged from Neanderthal mankind after the glacial epoch in Europe to the discovery of America by Columbus and the conquest of Mexico. In other words, it is quite an "epic."

* * *

The exploring, world-wandering instinct of the northern peoples of Europe is the theme of Jensen's mythmaking. He describes their evolution thru savagery, barbarism, and civilization, always r'aring to be on the move, in mass migrations or single-handed adventures. He works Columbus into his pageant by giving him ancestors among the Teutonic Longobards, who became the Italian Lombards. He chants his finale of the up-and-doing vagabonds with a few pages on Charles Darwin's voyage on the Beagle.

* * *

We fear that literature's warriors on the home front will not be pleased with Jensen's premiation. They are likely to scream or hiss, "This is rank pre-Hitler Aryanism and we are shocked by the award." Nevertheless, according to the spirit of his time and place, Mr. Jensen wrote a fairly impressive work. . . . Incidentally, he once visited this country, before literary cocktail parties were invented, and wrote a novel of Chicago backgrounds called "The Wheel."

The Duke as Art Patron.

Hon. Linemaster: At tha Line party I gets a chance to get real good acquainted with that Mr. Button, alias Shandy Gaff, and in tha course of our bragging he tells me he runs a gallery and if I am ever near his place I shood drop in. Well, yesterday I'm trying to buy some cigars [without success] an being near Shandy's dump an being pretty handy with a rifle I figger I'll drop in an win me some stogies. An whadda ya know? It ain't a shooting gallery; it's an art gallery.

Well, he slips me tha glad mit an then proceeds to start ta sell me a picture. He's gotta lot of chromos of flowers an of fruit, but one in perticular strikes my eye cause its got a naked bimbo on it and it's entitled, "Salome at tha bath." Fer a cupple bucks I figger I cood'n go far wrong but when I asks tha price he tells me very nonchalantly like that he wood hate to part with it but on a/c I'm a pretty swell guy I cood have it for a measly $7,000. He also states that its a genuine Corona; well, this baloney he don't get away with cause I happen to know that one of tha Corona boys makes typewriters and I think his brother Jake manufactures cigars.

Ennyway, I tells him that if I had 7 grand I wood buy me a stucco hut. He scratches his dandruff an then says, "Stuccohut! Stuccohut! Why I've never heard of him; must be a new arrival in tha modern field." I juss figger where ignorance is bliss, etc., but I do tell him that my buddy Pete has got a pitcher in his saloon that's 3 times as big an has got 4 naked gals on it, plus tha fact that there's glass between tha frame an tha picture, and that all Pete gave fer it was 25 smackers.

By now, just for fun I'm gonna see whether Shandy's act is on tha level, so I tells him I'll give him 30 bucks fer tha chromo and instead of throwing me out head first whadda ya think he seys? Duke Bakrak.

Now close the shutters, draw the shade,
And let no jarring sound intrude

In which your pleasant games are played.

And when at night you try to sleep,
Let no doubt whisper at your heart:
Conjure the shibboleths of art—

AVIATION ENGINEERS.

The navy is seeking a large number of men between 21 and 38 years old with a degree in aeronautical, electrical, or mechanical engineering. Candidates with experience in aerodynamics, flight testing, weight control, stress analysis, etc., are especially desired. Persons with extensive experience in radio and electronics also will be considered. See Lt. Petrie, Room 308, Board of Trade, Chicago.

TEETHING DOES NOT CAUSE FEVER.

TEETHING is not a disease. In fact, if the youngster is ill during this period, we should look elsewhere for the origin of the disturbance. A natural process will not produce fever, altho fretfulness may be understood. Nevertheless, physicians have been told over and over again by mothers with children who are running a temperature of 102 degrees or even higher, that it is "just Willie's teeth."

What are some of the conditions that may be overlooked if we are not alert? Probably the most important are infections within the mouth, the throat, or the middle ear. If considerable dribbling is exhibited, contamination may spread widely thruout the oral cavity. This explains why so many tiny ulcers may be observed.

Complications, too, are invited and bacteria may be planted upon oral mucous surfaces because of the drop in resistance. Not infrequently, an inspection will reveal punched out areas, dirty grey in shade, which are the source of a substantial amount of pain and smarting. The application of a crystal of potassium alum or a drop of gentian violet solution, more often than not, will bring relief. This is the time when we need to keep the parts especially clean. In order to help build reserve, we feed additional quantities of fruit juices, which will provide a generous allotment of vitamin C.

When appetite is lost, the most common cause is sore throat. Instead of forcing the child to eat, the wise thing to do is to call the family doctor and let him make a careful examination.

We have heard the expression all too often: "John has diarrhea because he is cutting his teeth." While it is true that pressure of hard edibles upon sore gums may bring on retching, loose bowels will not appear. Again, foods may be swallowed without the slightest attempt at chewing. Thus indigestion may ensue because mastication has not been accomplished. Frequent stools will come, as a rule, only from germ laden or irritating nutriments. We must not forget, however, that until the molars appear, the child cannot grind his food fine enough. In consequence, it must be prepared for him.

In a study made over several years, of all the diseases which may attack at about the same time that the "ivories" are breaking thru, a sizable number of cases of pyelitis [pus within the kidneys] were discovered. The little ones ranged from 8 months to 2½ years of age and, in practically every instance, the typical symptoms included restlessness and high fever. Many were indisposed for several days before the physician was called. The members of the family thought that the dental episode was at fault.

A test of the urine was required to reveal the true state of affairs. The fluid was found loaded with pus. Under the influence of the sulfa drugs, marked improvement was brought about. In fact, most of the patients returned to normal promptly. To be sure that all was well, however, a course of calcium mandelate was later adopted. As soon as the urine became strongly acid, organisms disappeared.

No, we must not assume that, other than local discomfort, teething can be responsible for an accompanying malady.

FOUR MAIN SOURCES.

REPLY.

Rheumatic fever, the invasion of dangerous bacteria, syphilis, and degeneration involving the blood vessels and the muscle of the pumping organ.

FEVER PEAK.

D. S. writes: What causes afternoon flush in tuberculosis?

REPLY.

A rising temperature. This follows an increase in toxemia and is coincident with activity, the digestion of food, mental alertness, etc.

Notes in Passing.

It was a decided shock two days after the election to get an invitation heavily embossed in white and scarlet elephants, the general understanding being that elephants were to disappear for another four years. It turned out to be an invitation to a White Elephant shop rummage sale. . . . Bob Becker of dog, duck, and wildlife fame, is wearing an occupational disease tie during the month of November. It shows wild ducks flying in beautiful fanlike arrangement across the sky. Last Friday, the day before the hunting season opened, he clipped it in place with a small gold setter. . . . Lt. Col. Hess, a Czech airman who is a veteran of the battle of Britain and a delegate to the international air conference here, hurried out to the Museum of Science and Industry last week to be present at the presentation of a Spitfire. Museum officials noted his insignia, three stars, thought him a ranking general, and swept him inside with great ceremony. His chief, an air marshal, was ignored. . . . The ladies' retiring room adjoining the Pump room has a new legend: "The Gossip Room."

Have you noticed the self-conscious look of the man who walks down the street smoking a cigaret?

A San Antonio locksmith who bought a hearing aid reports with glee that he can use it to open and reset vault tumblers on safe opening jobs. That doubtless is heartening news for safebreakers.

If you have ever wandered into an art gallery filled with paintings of what is known as modern art, you undoubtedly have heard [or perhaps uttered] snorts of derision. "I don't see why they consider that art," the visitor will say, looking at a painting of five misshapen, fat, nude ladies playing tag. "My little boy can do as well as that." Or, a man will scoff, "Why can't they make human beings look like human beings?"

Such seekers after art usually emerge not only frustrated, but furious. In an effort to separate art and anger forever, the Art Institute has set out to "explain" modern art in its remodeled gallery of art interpretation. However, the words "modern art" are never used. It's just art. In the explanation, which shows how Picasso and little Orphan Annie really are akin and why blue horses really are prettier than those of orthodox hues, not a single technical word is used. The most obvious technical word in modern art is distortion, but you won't find it on these walls. The words, chums, are "transform" or "exaggerate." Nor, happily, is there a single typewritten label, based on the theory that if labels are around, the public reads them and forgets to look at the pictures.

The show was worked up by Katharine Kuh of the institute, who formerly had a modern art gallery of her own and spent half her time pacifying visitors or answering their many "Whys." Follow the hows and whys around the walls and you'll find it all very simple.

"Franz Marc knew horses are not blue," says the caption beneath his painting of some violent blue steeds. "But he used this color for its emotional shock value." "This is not a woman," states the legend beside a painting of a woman by Modigliani. "This is a painting of a woman." Understand? One of Picasso's merry running nudes, a lady who is all long legs in the wind, has beside it the same lady correctly proportioned. "Which is running faster?" asks the legend. Picasso's, of course.

Our favorite is Renoir's portrait of a young girl with rippling long red hair. "This is the way hair grows," the legend states. Beside it are photographs of modern coiffures: "But we rearrange it to attain new designs." Look at these coiffures, and you will realize quickly that no modern art is any more distorted than the hair which today glorifies feminine heads.

Note of caution: The gigantic diorama which fills the two large circular display cases of an upper Michigan avenue radio house is not a display of rural electrification, as one confused bystander interpreted it. It might more properly be called Tolstoi's "War and Peace" rendered in miniature.

REPLIES TO ELLA.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—I was vastly amused at Ella Fosdick's assertion that "Dewey can shake his finger at us 'dumb clucks' but he doesn't scare we moderns, who know where our bread is buttered and by whom—our friend, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Somewhere, long, long ago, I read of a man who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. E. TISDALE, R. N.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Miss Fosdick declares that "Dewey can shake his finger at you dumb clucks, but he doesn't scare us moderns." Yes, Dewey shook his finger, and to the tune of some 22,500,000 American voters. That leaves about 25,500,000 American voters [including the CIO, the PAC, the Communists, and 3,600,000 pay rollers in Washington] who are not dumb clucks. Not a very large majority, is it? MARY C. HANSEN.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Perhaps Miss Fosdick doesn't know that as long as there are two sides to a question, the country is not in any danger of being taken over by dictators, but when all people begin thinking alike, or letting their government think for them, the danger signal flashes red. May I remind the young modern that the "landslide" that elected President Roosevelt was a majority of exactly 6 per cent. In other words, because nearly half of the people in America think differently than our government, our country would be better off without them. Which, Miss Fosdick, sounds more like Germany? JEANE EITEL.

ILLINOIS YANK, ARM GONE, SEES SHINING FUTURE

His Pep Lifts Morale at Air Base Hospital.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A NORTH ATLANTIC AIR BASE, Nov. 12.—The most peppery and popular patient in the military hospital here is Pvt. Karl E. Joop, a young Illinoisan, who refuses to be let down by the loss of an arm in battle.

"I'll get by with one arm just as well as with two," he said. He means it, too. His spirit is contagious. It has helped lift the morale of many of his fellow wounded, who figure that if he could lose an arm without losing courage, their cases cannot be so bad.

Joop is 24, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Joop, La Salle, Ill. His wife, Gladys, lives at Peru, near La Salle. He was flown back to this side of the Atlantic a few days ago by air transport command.

Hit by Shell as He Attacks.

Joop entered the army in October last year and was wounded on Sept. 22 near Lapparta, Italy. A rifleman, he was moving in to attack when a German 88 mm. shell exploded five feet from him. His left arm was almost torn off. Shell bits also wounded him in the right forefinger, right shoulder, and behind the right ear. The arm was amputated the next day.

Joop was asked how he contemplated the future with only one arm. Tall, dark haired, and confident, he replied, "I'm not worrying."

Maybe, he said, he will go back to the Western Clock company plant, where he once worked on machine setup. Or maybe, he said, he will go to school. But one thing, he emphasized, he will never let his handicap discourage him.

He'll Keep on Doing Best.

"There are a lot of good things one can do with one arm," Joop said. "I'll probably develop my right hand to more effective use. I'll be able to drive, bowl, or do most of the things I did before. I went into the army figuring I'd do the best I could. When I go back into civilian life with only one arm instead of two, I'll figure the same. There's too much in life for me and the others like me, whether they lose an arm or a leg, not to do the best with what we have."

Thus you have one wounded Yank's philosophy. And there are many others like Pvt. Joop of Illinois.

RECORD MAKING RESUMED AFTER 27 MONTH TIE-UP

New York, Nov. 12 [Special].—Record making was resumed here today by RCA-Victor after a lapse of 27 months due to the canned music war which ended last night with the big record companies agreeing to pay royalties amounting to $4,000,000 a year to James Caesar Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians.

A spokesman for RCA-Victor said the making of discs would be begun tomorrow in Hollywood and Tuesday in Chicago. The other companies which capitulated to the AFM royalty demands were Columbia Recording and the transcription division of the National Broadcasting company. Decca Records and 112 smaller concerns signed up with the union a year ago.

Petrillo, president of the AFM, said payments will be held in the union treasury until the union decides how to use them to alleviate unemployment. In his long fight against the record companies, Petrillo defied an order of the war labor board and turned down a personal appeal from President Roosevelt for removal of the recording ban for patriotic reasons.

[ADVERTISMENT]

GOOD COOKS OBSERVE BASIC RULE

By cooking in small quantities they avoid disappointing variations

Whether it be the preparation of an omelet, a cream sauce, a pie, or fried chicken, all good cooks agree that the best results come from cooking in small quantities. Only in this way can the flavor, consistency, and texture of the dish be controlled.

Likewise, in roasting coffee, a little at a time is the best rule. For that reason, Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., developed "Controlled Roasting,"—an exclusive process that roasts the finest coffees obtainable a few pounds at a time. By this method it is possible to accurately control the amount of coffee passing into the roaster, the speed of operation, and the temperature. Every berry is roasted to the exact degree that insures matchless, uniform flavor.

What is more, every single pound of Hills Bros. Coffee can be depended on for the same delicious flavor, since the variations that come with ordinary methods of roasting in bulk are eliminated.

THE QUESTION.

If all your plans work out, what will be your status 10 years from now?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Bob Dennen, 1437 Greenleaf av.—I want to be an aircraft engineer and test pilot for the planes I design. If my business is successful I'd like to have a home in the city where I work, and also a home in the north woods that I could fly to on weekends. Then on the side I want to be an auto race driver.

Lennie Altmayer, 6115 Waveland av.—A friend of mine and I are planning to go to college and study air conditioning engineering. After we have been graduated we are going to South America and establish a business. In 10 years it should be a profitable concern, and I hope to be traveling around the world in a boat.

Richard Moderhack, 3145 N. Spaulding av.—After working my way up in an office I hope to have a responsible position as an office manager or an officer of the company for which I work. I hope to be happily married and living in a moderate home of my own somewhere on the northwest side of Chicago.

George Kouros, 1650 N. Richmond st.—If all goes according to plans I will have an established reputation as a civil engineer. I'll work between Europe and South America and spend part of my time on both continents. I doubt if I will be married by that time because before I settle down I want to see the world.

Edward Sunde, 3735 N. Christiana av.—If possible I would like to have a home in one of the suburbs north of Chicago. In about 10 years I should be expanding my business as an architect and forming a corporation. I want to be married and have a family. I think that in 10 years from now my business should be booming.

William Butor, 5929 Grace st.—After 10 years I hope to have enough money to retire. I'm definitely not going to get married as I believe that would be a handicap in attaining an early success in business. I'm going to be a civil engineer. I want to spend most of my spare time in a mountain lodge in Oregon that I will have by that time.

U. OF I. INTENDS TO SPIN COSMIC RAYS IN ITS LAB

Plan $1,300,000 Machine for Cancer Fight.

If the next legislature approves, the University of Illinois is planning to build a new $1,300,000 machine to bring cosmic rays into the laboratory for study and possibly to provide a new aid in the treatment of cancer.

Park Livingston.

The machine will be known as a betatron and will be 10 times more powerful than any similar equipment now in existence.

The purpose of the machine is to whirl electrons around so fast that they finally reach a speed of 185,000 miles a second and shoot off in space, against a metal target.

Converse Is Atom Smasher.

The converse of the betatron, Park Livingston, president of the university's board of trustees, explained, is the cyclotron, sometimes known as the "atom smasher," which whirls protons around until they shoot off in space. A proton, he explained, is a positively charged particle which is 1,800 times as heavy as an electron, which carries a negative electrical charge.

The new machine is expected to develop more power than the most powerful X-rays, yet its rays, it is contended, are harmless to healthy tissue. It is this fact which stimulates the interest of the medical researchers in its possible use in treatment of cancer.

Machine Finished in 1940.

Inventor of the betatron is Donald Kerst, who came to the University of Illinois in the fall of 1938, and two years later had constructed a small machine, capable of generating 2.3 million volt X-rays.

In experimental work, Kerst proved that the destructive effect of high energy X-rays actually increases for a distance as the radiation penetrates tissue-like material.

Great Advantage Seen.

"In deep therapy where the problem is to treat an internal diseased region without doing great damage to surface tissue, the advantage of betatron radiation as explained by investigators may be very great," Livingston said.

In the proposed new betatron, capable of being pushed to an output of 250 million volts, scientists believe they may be able to create mesotrons, also known as heavy electrons. These recently discovered particles are believed by some to hold together the parts of atomic nuclei, with a force as yet unsolved, and contain the secret of cosmic rays, according to many opinions.

THANKSGIVING DINNER PRICES CURBED BY OPA

As a result of the new national regulation that went into effect last July 31, Thanksgiving day dinners for persons who eat in restaurants in Chicago and vicinity may be a little lower in price this year than last, Marion W. Isbell, director of the metropolitan area office of price administration, said yesterday.

Formerly, restaurants could charge higher prices on Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's day if that had been their custom.

The new regulation permits them to charge only 15 per cent higher prices on holidays. The restriction does not apply to New Year's eve, when restaurants are allowed to charge prices in effect on New Year's eve, 1942.

Chicago householders who heat with oil should have used no more than 10 per cent of their total yearly fuel oil allotment to date, according to the weekly fuel oil index released yesterday by the OPA. Index figures for other cities in this area were: Milwaukee, 10; Madison, 11; Green Bay, 12; Peoria, 11, and Springfield, 8.

KNEECAP FRACTURED IN CRASH.

ILLINI MEDICS TAKE HOSPITAL ON WAR'S TRAIL

Their Tent City Now in Southern France.

In gently rolling country in the south of France, served by a main highway from the great port of Marseille and protected and beautified by tall old trees, stands a little city that is part of Illinois in everything but geographical location.

Col. C. B. Puestow.

It is the tented city that constitutes the American 27th Evacuation hospital, which was activated at the University of Illinois in Chicago in October, 1942, and which has followed the army thru maneuvers in Tennessee and West Virginia, thru the fierce Italian campaigns between Cassino and Pisa, and now into southern France.

Highland Park Officer Commands.

Its commanding officer is Col. Charles B. Puestow, whose home is at 861 Lincoln av., Highland Park, and who is on military leave from the university's college of medicine, where he is a professor of surgery. The chief nurse is Capt. Rhoda E. Frid of 2321 Ridgeway av., Evanston. The hospital's medical and nursing staff was recruited from the university, and men and women from Chicago, Peoria, Kankakee, Ottawa, Effingham, Champaign, and other Illinois cities and towns make up the bulk of the roster.

The hospital is a 750 bed unit whose total personnel, including patients, ranges between 1,200 and 2,000. This miniature city is largely self-sufficient, for it has its own electric generating system for light and power, its own water purification devices, even its own plumbers, carpenters, and ditch diggers. These last are hospital technicians who in the hard school of war have learned to turn their hand to almost anything.

Salvage Meets Needs.

From an old Italian motor and some salvaged cans, lumber, and metal the staff made a dry cleaning plant. Its members built an ice cream freezer and a power saw from equally unpromising material. When the 27th moves, as it has so often, it is not unusual to find doctors and nurses wielding hammers and saws. A few hours after the hospital reaches its new location, it may receive its first patients, and shock wards, operating tents, and X-ray and laboratory facilities must be ready immediately.

To promote efficiency, the 27th has devised an arrangement of tents in the form of a cross, each such unit accommodating 100 patients. Thus, even under emergency conditions, when the bulk of the hospital staff is busy with incoming patients, a relatively small number of nurses and medical corps members can attend to the wants of the other sick and wounded.

GIRL OF 7 KEPT ALIVE BY BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS

Patricia Attaway, 7, of 617 Cleveland av., was being kept alive by blood transfusions in St. Charles hospital at Aurora yesterday, while the Red Cross is seeking to locate her father, a navy Seabee in the South Pacific, in an effort to have him flown back to the girl's bedside.

Patricia, a pupil in St. Joseph's parochial school in Aurora, became ill three weeks ago. Last week her illness was diagnosed as lymphatic leukemia, a dread blood disease.

She was removed to St. Charles hospital, and her mother, Florence, appealed to the Aurora Red Cross to find Patricia's father, who has been overseas for two years. An appeal also was issued yesterday for blood donors of blood type A or 2.

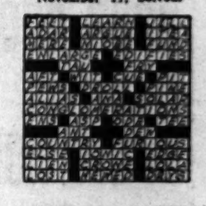
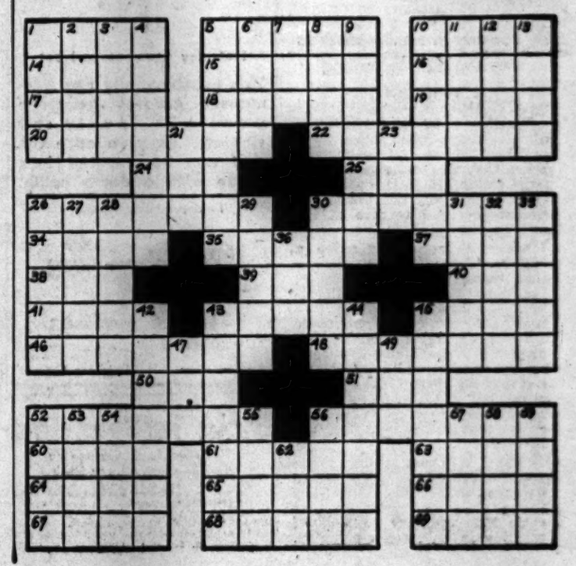
Puzzle of Saturday, November 11, Solved.





Miss Mason Is Betrothed to Lt. Towers

BY JUDITH CASS.

NEWS of the engagement of Miss Lois Mason to Lt. [j. g.] Charles Carstairs Towers of the naval reserve will be of interest to many more Chicagoans than could be included in the family circle which heard the announcement made by her parents, the Frederic Ogden Masons, at a small tea yesterday in their Winnetka home. Miss Mason is a member of one of Chicago's oldest and most widely known families, as her father is a grandson of the late Roswell B. Mason, who was mayor of the city at the time of the great fire of 1871.

Lt. Towers was able to share the best wishes extended to his fiancée yesterday, as he has been a flight instructor at the Glen View naval air station for almost a year. Neither of his parents could be here, however, as his mother, Mrs. Martin B. Saportas, lives in New York and his father, Vice Admiral John H. Towers, is on duty with the navy in the Pacific. Miss Mason's two brothers are away with the army, Sgt. Roswell B. Mason III. in New Guinea and Lt. Frederic Ogden Mason Jr. in Mississippi.

Miss Mason, a debutante of the 1941 season, attended Bryn Mawr college. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league. Her fiancé studied at the Avon school in Connecticut.

Miss Mason's cousin, Mrs. John Franklin Davis [Lois Pittman], who shared a number of the same debutante parties three years ago, is in Norfolk, Va., with Lt. j. g.] Davis. When Lt. Davis goes to sea his wife will return to Winnetka to be with her mother, Mrs. Louvia Pittman.

Here and There.

Two new names—those of Miss Patsy Pettibone and of Miss Margaret Merrick—have been added to the debut list this year. Miss Pettibone will be presented at a small tea on Dec. 22 in the Winnetka home of her parents, the Holman D. Pettibones. Miss Merrick, daughter of Mrs. Clinton Merrick of Evanston, will share honors at a tea-dance on Dec. 30 at the Woman's Athletic club with Miss Ann Johnson, daughter of the W. Elliott Johnsons of Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick are inviting 20 friends to luncheon next Saturday at the Arts club to meet James Hazen Hyde of New York. Mr. Hyde spoke Saturday before the Alliance Francaise, which he founded. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick recently moved into their new apartment at 936 Lake Shore dr.

Familiar packets carrying the 1945 edition of the Chicago Social Register are late this year, as war time emergencies have held up their distribution. Among the tabulations within the little black and red covered book, now in the mail, are 179 marriages during the year.

Birth Announcements.

When Warrant Officer John J. P. Odell was here on furlough from his post in Gulfport, Miss., a week ago, he met his new son, born on Oct. 10 in the Evanston hospital. The baby's uncle, Lt. Gordon Odell, for whom he was named, missed seeing him by one day, as Lt. Odell left on the 9th for overseas duty. Col. Irving Odell, father of the two young men, has returned to England after a five day visit here last month. Warrant Officer Odell and his wife, the former Margery Shuman, have another little boy, John Jr.

The Evanston home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Harris is enlivened these days with the presence of their infant daughter, Susan Bamford, who was born in St. Luke's hospital on Aug. 5. The little girl, who received her middle name from her mother, the former Beatrice Bamford, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bamford of Lake Shore dr.

Romantic News.

Tonight's performance of "Pelleas and Melisande," which opens the final week of the current Chicago Opera company season, will start off a busy week for Miss Marilou Hellman and her fiancé, Lt. [j. g.] Warren Hamer of the naval reserve, who will be married at 4:30 p. m. on Saturday in the Winnetka Congregational church. They will attend tonight's performance with Miss Hellman's mother, Mrs. Barnett Faroll, and Mr. Faroll. Mrs. Walter Warrick will give a luncheon and shower on Wednesday at the Glen View club for Miss Hellman, whose mother will entertain at luncheon on Thursday for the bridal party. On Friday the bride's sister, Mrs. Jack Griffin, who will be her matron of honor, and Mr. Griffin will give the bridal dinner in their home.

Before Miss Bennette Freeman left for Radcliffe college to work on her master's degree, she and her mother, Mrs. Thomas B. Freeman, gave a luncheon and shower. Among others who have entertained for Miss Hellman are Mrs. Edmund Hastings and her daughter, Suzanne; Mrs. Oliver Blackburn, Miss Barbara Allen, Mrs. Vernon Loucks and her daughter, Catherine; Miss Pat Westbrook, Mrs. Carey Orr, and Miss Joan Huth.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Hand of E. Superior st., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ensign Jacqueline E. Hand of the WAVES, to Lt. [j. g.] Will B. Jamison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay C. Jamison of Greensburg, Pa. Ensign Hand will wear a white wedding gown instead of her navy blue uniform when she is married on Dec. 8 in the chapel of the Emanuel church in Boston, Mass., where both she and Lt. Jamison are stationed. She is a graduate of La Salle Junior college and attended the University of Illinois. Lt. Jamison is a graduate of the Massachusetts Intitute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Sandy of N. Hoyne av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Lois Carolyn, to Lt. William O. Nelson of the marine corps, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson of Rockford, Ill.

Wed to Ensign in New Orleans

'Wallflower' Is Moderately Gay Comedy of Family Life

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

"Wallflower" is a variation of the "Kiss and Tell" theme, without George Abbott to call the tune. In the realm of adolescent farce that is a handicap, but even without the redoubtable pacemaker the new comedy is better than anything the Great Northern has offered lately—always with the exception of its crack crime play, "Uncle Harry." The difference is just that "Wallflower" sometimes droops where a master hand could perk it up, and sometimes uses a bludgeon where a lighter touch would be funnier. But it gets a little gayer as it goes along, and on the whole is a moderately amusing domestic comedy in terms of what some playwrights like to call the American scene.

This is the tale of the Linnet girls, the glamor girl and the not quite ugly duckling, and their parents, who squabble over the wallflower's inability to hold her own with her scintillant half sister. Papa is an assistant district attorney intent on putting over a deal to cut down juvenile delinquency and he invokes the aid of wealthy neighbor, Wardwell James, whose callow son was Jackie's beau until the butterfly net caught him. The trouble is the Wolves' Den of iniquity is raided on the one night Jackie and the befuddled Warren choose to howl.

A lot of this struck me as considerably less hilarious than my neighbor seemed to think, but I think I may be pretty tired of this type of crude comedy. Certainly it would come off better, even without Mr. Abbott, if the youngsters in the cast were at least as capable as their elders, notably Mr. McNellis, the handsome Miss Blythe of the surprisingly firm voice, and the rubber faced Mr. Campbell, who looks just like some one everybody knows.

"WALLFLOWER."

Comedy by Mary Orr and Reginald Denham, staged by Mr. Denham in a setting by Samuel Leve. Presented at the Great Northern theater Sunday evening, Nov. 12, 1944.

But the best of the younger set is Kay Buckley, the pretty, friendly girl who gets the beaux, and that upsets the flower cart a bit. In any Cinderella story, Cinderella ought to be unmistakable, even in ashes. I couldn't find much in Miss Stokowski's performance to make me want to put the other girl's nose out of joint. Sincerity is one thing, and just being plain dull is another.

Crowd Hears Casadesus at His Very Best

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

One of the charms of concert-going is that you never know when some one is going to emulate "De Lawd" in "The Green Pastures" by deciding to "r'ar back and pass a miracle." Robert Casadesus did just that yesterday afternoon when the Civic Opera house was packed right down to the orchestra pit to do him honor. The French pianist has been a favorite since his American début, and few Chicagoans who heard it are likely to forget his "Emperor" concerto with the late Frederick Stock at Orchestra hall. But in the last season or two he has not quite done himself justice. Yesterday he not only recovered all lost ground, but made seven league strides into newly conquered territory.

The result was a recital somewhere in between the fabulous brilliance of Vladimir Horowitz and the subtle supremacy of Walter Gieseking, and it was unmistakably Casadesus. His tone always was the secret of his spell, and he has it back again in all its lambent splendor. Set off by magnificent technique, it provided some of the most exciting music in seasons.

When he began with Bach's Italian Concerto there was no mistaking what was about to happen. This happy, almost rhapsodical work, poured out of the piano with an extraordinary sense of kinship with the harpsichord for which it was written. But when Casadesus tackled the "Appassionata," this was the piano, and it was the purest Beethoven, a great, glowing performance singing in a kind of heady exultation.

So he was both a Bach and a Beethoven specialist, yet that was only the beginning. His Chopin had the scope of the G minor ballade, the tenuous, almost tenebrous delicacy of the berceuse, the torrential flow of the tarantelle. And despite all these things, his recital seemed not quite to have started until he came to his own French music. Debussy came alive under his fingers with the first phrases of the magnificently played "Reflections in the Water." The audacity of Ravel's "Alborado del Gracioso" had the caracoling pride of a war-horse ridden to victory. Remember the Sunday a couple of years ago when Rubinstein surpassed himself? Casadesus was like that yesterday.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 12.—Hal Wallis may be lucky and end up with Ray Milland and Barbara Stanwyck in "Don't Ever Grieve Me." . . . Betty Hutton is sure going to be busy when she gets home. She has given the boys in the south Pacific her home address and promised them dates. Her mother phoned yesterday to say, "I don't know what I'm going to do with all these letters here for Betty." I suggested she fill the dates and have herself some fun before Betty returns. . . . They call Oleg "one-sock" Cassini." At a party the other night a man tried to plant a kiss on Gene Tierney. Oleg swung, the kisser made a three point landing and the fight was over. . . . Mrs. Pat O'Brien has left for Salt Lake City to speak to the Utah war finance committee. She has traveled so much she's referred to as the "Eleanor" of Hollywood. . . . The whole town wants a picture version of "I Remember Mama," but RKO owns the picture rights and part of the play.

Yale's Phelps on Screen.

Hollywood's talking about a life of William Lyon Phelps for the screen and suggests Spencer Tracy. I remember listening to Phelps years ago in Miami, Fla. Someone asked for the story of creation. "Young man," said Phelps, "the good Lord only tells us what we can understand. If we were told all the secrets of creation, our skulls would crack open like an egg shell." . . . As I predicted three weeks ago, the Jon Hall—Tommy Dorsey case has been dropped. But I didn't suspect that the motion for dismissal would be made on the grounds of "insufficient evidence and in the interest of justice." That's rather surprising, especially since the little Panamanian actor who was involved had permission to leave Panama to fly here to testify. Money was sent him for the trip and at the last minute he was canceled out.

They're Alone at Last.

The Cary Grants have seclusion at last. Cary's bought the George Miller mansion in Bel Air. They've moved in. It's rather a masculine house, cold and austere. Barbara's French governess, who's been with her more than twenty-five years, is leaving. This leaves vacant the Douglas Fairbanks home on the Riviera, which the Grants formerly occupied. The master bedroom with only one entrance thru the mistress' bedroom, which has been written about so many times, is just as it was when the Grants took possession. That's the way the Fairbanks and not the Grants built it. The bedroom in the Grants' new home has two entrances. . . . The Frank Lloyds are excited over a new boarder, Kit, their grandson whom they'll take care of while their daughter joins her husband, Lt. Franklin Gray, at Fort Benning, Ga. . . . Penny Singleton's new hair-do was copied from a tin-type of her great-great-grandmother. It has three little buns atop her head.

He Gets His Chance.

At a small dinner Charles Mendl gave was William Seiter, director of "Affairs of Susan." As Seiter was leaving he turned to Charles and said, "I hear you want to act. We have a small part for you in our picture, if you'd care to make your debut with Joan Fontaine." Would he! Robert Landy, also a guest, was telling about the price of food and clothing in Paris. He says the reason for those gigantic hats was that the Germans ordered the French to use not more than a yard of material. The French resented it. So they cut up old curtains and dresses, and piled up yard after yard just to spite the Germans.

The Hodiaks—One for All.

You've got to hand it to John Hodiak for his devotion to his parents, who are Ukranian peasants. John, who's very much in love with Anne Baxter, says he won't marry until he can buy a little place for his parents and have enough left over to support a wife, too. His mother wants a place where she can raise chickens, and have some pigs. His father, who hasn't had a vacation since 1912, doesn't like loafing. He says, "I think I'll go down to Douglas and get me a job there." They're of the earth—earthy—but nice folks. When I asked Hodiak how he got money enough to see movies when he was young, his answer was "I'd pick up junk, melt it down, and if I made a dime I'd go see a picture show." . . . Sonny Dunham knows a glamour girl who's so uppity she won't eat horse radish unless she's wearing a riding habit.

"SENSATIONS OF 1945."

A United Artists picture, directed by Andrew Stone, starring Eleanor Powell, with Dennis O'Keefe, Eugene Pallette, C. Aubrey Smith, W. C. Fields, Sophie Tucker, Dorothy Donegan, Cab Calloway and his band, Woody Herman and his band, and David Lichine, and presented at the Oriental.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Devotees of variety will find a multiple course table d'hote in "Sensations of 1945." Served on a slim thread of plot, heaping portions of talent are dispensed with music and without waiting, and you feel exactly as you always do after the best tables d'hote—that maybe you've had a little too much.

Eleanor Powell is the recurring leit motif of what passes for plot. She is glibly dancing to Woody Herman's band in a revue, when from a stage box a shot is fired—shades of John Wilkes Booth—and a woman in black cries out "That will teach her to steal husbands!" Turns out it was all a publicity stunt, and the shooter was Mimi Forsythe, Eleanor's best friend.

But when Eugene Pallette and his handsome but conservative son, Dennis O'Keefe, who own the agency which has handled Eleanor's publicity find out it was a hoax, there is a division of opinion. Dennis thinks the idea was deplorable, but his father thinks Eleanor has a head for the publicity business and takes her into partnership. Eleanor then proceeds to show Dennis a thing or two in the promotional line.

She starts a "Circus in the Sky"—forgetting nothing but the liquor concession—and you hold your breath as the Cristianis hurtle themselves thru the air, Hubert Castle risks his neck on the tight-wire, and the Flying Copelands tumble fancily.

With that under her neat little belt, Eleanor opens the "Old Plantation" club on Broadway, with Cab Calloway and his band, and—don't miss this—Dorothy Donegan taking off on Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody, aided and abetted at the climax by Gene Rodgers at a second piano. This venture lands Eleanor in jail because her publicity stunt blockades traffic in Times Square.

Nothing daunted, she goes on to sponsor an ancient thespian, C. Aubrey Smith, in a "Gay Nineties" club, the idea being that all the old timers will come and donate their talent. They do—including Sophie Tucker, who is her indestructible self, and W. C. Fields, who is badly let down by the script writer.

And so on—that's not all by any means. If it's a big meal you're looking for, here's your money's worth.

Housewives Urged to Salvage Tin Can a Week for War Uses

If every housewife will prepare at least one food tin can a week for salvage it will materially step up the campaign to collect critically needed materials for war equipment, Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the Chicago OCD tin-grease salvage campaign, said yesterday.

Among many uses for tin is in the production of solder for electrical connections, without which there can be no satisfactory communication systems for our armed forces, she explained.

"The only source of tin in America is discarded tin cans," she said in her message to housewives and industrial firms.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Will women in war jobs continue to work in industry when it converts to peace time production?

This department has surveyed Chicago area women workers in those industries which may be expected to go into large scale, post-war manufacturing.

Because it is not feasible at this time to relate women's preferences to what the labor demands will be during the conversion period, this survey will attempt only to determine, by asking the women themselves, whether they intend to retain industrial jobs, or jobs like them, should industry require their services, and whether they prefer the work they are doing to occupations in which they were engaged before Pearl Harbor.

The survey will be concerned, too, only with plants representing the larger industrial fields, such as aviation and radio, which will change over to the production of civilian goods. Munitions and ordnance workers, for example, probably will shift to other fields when the demand for their products ceases with the end of the war.

A regional poll will differ from any national survey for many reasons. Among the qualifying factors are types of jobs considered, numbers of workers questioned, labor shortage figures, employment standards, and kinds of products manufactured.

Incomplete returns of a cross section survey by the department of labor's women's bureau in war production centers shows that about three-fourths of the women interviewed wanted to continue in paid work after war employment ends. These results are contrary to the reports of a "back to the home" movement.

The survey indicates that many women now in manufacturing who formerly held jobs such as those of waitress, domestic, and in retail trade, have expressed the desire to remain in post-war industry.

A report recently made to the women's advisory committee of the war man power commission disclosed that women will retain much of their prominence in industry unless mass unemployment, creating economic fears which heighten prejudices against women on the job, should occur.

The same report further informed the committee, which represents women from government, industry management and labor, that redistribution of workers already is going on in a small way. Discharged service men are returning to jobs. Thru the WMC priority referral plan, machinery has been set up to channel workers into places where they are needed as certain war industries are cut back.

In discussing the fate of women workers during the industrial movement toward post-war production, the spokesman for WMC said that the state of the nation's total economy will be basic to women's employment. This opinion has been seconded by the women's bureau of the department of labor. With full employment conditions, women will hold their proportionate place, it is believed by these agencies."

Of the approximately 18,500,000 women in the labor force, WMC foresees only an estimated 1,500,000 leaving voluntarily. Other employment predictions indicate voluntary withdrawals of 3,000,000.

Glee Clubs Exhibit Variety and Tonal Quality in Concert

Tho numbering a membership of not more than 30, the Federal-Laredef Glee clubs, which sang before a capacity audience at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon, manage to achieve a pleasantly wide range of contrast in their work.

The group has apparently been well and thoroly drilled by their conductor, William Eugene Myrieks. The tone is of good quality and ranges thru a scale of color which, while small, nevertheless sidesteps monotony. Something of the characteristic Negro devotional spirit was imparted to the opening brace of songs, which included Parry's "I Know My Soul Has Power," Tschaikowsky's "Cherubim Song," Dett's "Guide Me and Lead Me," and "Send Forth Thy Spirit," by Schuetky.

The soloist was Bernice Keaton Barksdale, whose first number was the aria "O Don Fatale" from Verdi's "Don Carlos." Miss Barksdale's voice is an exceptional one in its warmth of color, its smoothness and its wide range. But she as yet understands next to nothing of real operatic style, tho there was little in the technical demands of the aria that gave her any particular concern. Marion Geary Randall was the accompanist. A. G.

Child's Use of Bad Words Is Passing Phase

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Is your child bringing home "bad words"? There are all kinds of "bad words." The "badness" lies much more within the ear of the listening mother than in the mind of the child. It may be just a small "talking back" word; it may be a rough type of slang; it may be a "swear word," or it may be one of those objectionable expressions that are often chalked up on fences or on sidewalks.

But, generally speaking, whatever the "bad word" is that your child has brought home, it is not as bad as it sounds. By that I mean, it isn't very bad for him, because your child often doesn't know that it is "bad."

Now the first suggestion for dealing with this use of "bad words" is the blanket one of ignoring them, or taking them lightly or casually. As a rule, this use of "bad words" is a passing phase and takes care of itself if let alone.

You see, children love novelty, and small children, particularly, like words and enjoy the sound of new words. Then, in addition, we have to admit that some of the rather rough slang and swear words have a certain amount of vigor and punch, and children like this.

What they are really doing, in most cases, when they bring home "bad words," is experimenting; but without going any more deeply into the reasons for the so-called "bad words," it might be practical for me to make a few definite suggestions. They are:

1. Don't be shocked, or jump on your child when he uses his first "bad word."

2. Don't tell your child he is saying something bad or shameful.

3. Don't pay too much attention to what he says. This only serves to emphasize the word and fix it in his memory.

4. If something needs to be said, explain quietly that it isn't a word that you use in your family, and that there is a better word meaning the same thing. A woman I know who has two boys [11 and 13] finds that going to the dictionary for meanings discourages the use of lots of "bad words."

5. As to the use of "street words"—words with sex connotations—this is to be handled naturally and quietly. But the best safeguard for the child of any age is to have a normal, natural attitude towards sex, and to know the correct names for the parts and functions of the body.

INSTALMENT I.

Sandra sat at the table making out a list of groceries to be bought for the ranch. Later in the day she and her brother Nelson would drive over to the crossroad store and get them.

"The sugar is plumb out, too, Miss Sandra, an' in two-three days I'll be scrapin' the bottom of the flour barrel," Jim Budd said.

"When the wagon goes tomorrow it can pick up the flour," Sandra decided. "We can bring the other supplies. You haven't forgotten anything?"

"I disremember having forgot a thing," Jim replied and flashed a set of shining teeth in a face black as the ace of spades. The huge cook found it easy to grin at his young mistress. In his warped life few people had been kind to him. At the Circle-JR ranch he had found a home.

Into the kitchen burst a red headed boy, eyes popping with excitement. "You know what, sis?" he cried. "They've just brought in Rod Spillman. He's been shot."

Sandra stared at her brother, the grocery list banished from her mind. After a moment of shocked silence she asked a question. "Who shot him?"

Nelson shook his head. "I dunno. They're taking him into the bunkhouse. Wouldn't let me see him. Told me to scat."

The girl ran out to the porch. She moved with the light grace of youth and perfect health. From the bunkhouse a man walked toward the stable. Sandra intercepted him.

"Buck, is it true about Rod?" she asked.

"You mean he's . . . dead?"

"That's right. We found him near the mouth of French Gulch."

"Who did it?"

"Rustlers. We dunno who for certain. They run off a bunch of our beef stuff. Looks like Red must of bumped into them while they were making the gather."

John Ranger stepped from his office to the porch. He carried a rifle in his hand. "Hustle up the mounts, Buck," he ordered. "We want to get started."

"You are taking out after the men who killed Rod," his daughter said after she had joined him.

"Yes. The boys are notifying the neighbors. We're meeting at Blunt's."

"Buck says you don't know who did it."

"We think it was Scarface and his gang. They were seen last night in the valley."

"You'll be careful, father."

Ranger was a large hard muscled man who looked able to take care of himself. "Don't worry about me," he said.

"Is there anything I can do, father?"

"Not a thing, honey. It's a bad business. They must have shot Rod so he couldn't tell who they were."

Five minutes later the owner of the JR and three of his men cantered down the road.

Altho still under 19, Sandra had managed the house since the death of her mother two years before. Her slim, erect body looked slight, but there was in her a toughness of fiber given by life on the frontier and the responsibilities it had thrust upon her. The death of Rod shocked her, yet she did not let it interfere with the work of the house. By the time she had changed the bed linen and swept the rooms Jim Budd had dinner ready.

"When do we start for the store?" Nelson asked her.

"As soon as you have hitched up Chance to the buggy," she told him. "I promised to stop and see Elvira on my way back."

They took the short cut thru the brush, following a trail just wide enough for the buggy. Shoots of mesquite and cactus slapped at the wheels.

At Bitter Wells they met a horseman, Miguel Torres, a middle aged Mexican who owned a ranch in the vicinity. He had been their neighbor ever since they could remember, and Nelson pulled up to exchange news of the chase after the rustlers.

The road dipped to the flats, and for the next mile they moved along a jungle of cholla, prickly pear, and occasional huisaches.

Four Mexicans rode out of the brush and drew up on the road in front of them, evidently to discuss the direction they wanted to follow. They wore the tight trousers, sombreros, and short decorated vests of vagueros in their native land. One of them caught sight of the buggy and raised a shout.

Sandra did not know the men, but she was not at all alarmed. She had been brought up in a land where there were many Mexicans, and she knew them for a gentle, friendly race. These riders were armed with rifles. It occurred to her they might be a detachment looking for the rustlers.

They pounded toward the buggy at a gallop and dragged their mounts to a halt.

Both Sandra and Nelson were frightened. These men were a villainous looking lot, and their mocking laughter was not reassuring.

"What do you want?" Nelson demanded. "John Ranger is our father. Please get out of the road and let us go on."

"So you are children of the great John Ranger," a bearded ruffian said. "That is good. Pablo will like that. He will keep you for hostages."

It came to Sandra that he meant Pablo Lopez, the notorious bandit whose name was a terror to the border. He lived in Sonora, but several times his band had swept into Arizona to burn and pillage ranches and to drive cattle across the line.

"If you will let us go my father will pay you anything you ask," Sandra promised.

"Si, senorita, he will pay, but we will not let you go."

He reached forward, and his hands closed around the waist of the girl. Nelson struck at him with the whip. Another outlaw brought the barrel of a .45 down on the boy's head. Altho Sandra struggled, she was dragged across the wheel of the buggy. Her fingers clawed at the dirty, brown face of her captor.

"Que diablo!" he cried, pinioning her wrists with the fingers of one hand. "This is no quail, but a hawk."

She screamed, with no real hope that any friend might hear. Sandra was held close to the thick body of the bearded outlaw, face toward him. Vainly she tried to wriggle out of his encircling arm; then with unexpected suddenness stopped fighting. Over the man's shoulder she had seen a horseman at the top of the rise from which the buggy had just descended.

For an instant the newcomer sat there, silhouetted against the horizon, a lean, long bodied fellow with a rifle in his hands. His horse jumped to a gallop, and he charged down the slope. Sandra had no time to guess who he was or why he was coming.

CONCLUSION.

Medora Madoc got up. Her pallor seemed to have gone for good. She was much flushed, and she looked as if she might be going to cry. She came over to the sofa and said, "Dear Miss Sophy—may I?" and then fairly ran out of the room.

Garth said, "Gosh!" And then, "How long will it last?"

"They have both been so very unhappy," she said. "I do not really think she will find Mr. Madoc difficult to manage. Tact and affection should cure him. I saw at once that that was the trouble."

Garth just gazed, until Miss Silver turned back to her audience. Then he leaned over Janice, on the arm of whose chair he was sitting, and murmured, she hoped inaudibly:

"Darling — swear to be tactful and affectionate."

Miss Silver coughed.

"There is very little more to say. I think that Ezra received some money on account. He seems to have stood drinks all round at the Bull, which was not his habit. But he showed the usual mounting appetite of the blackmailer, and—he began to talk. He became too dangerous to be tolerated. I think he was asked to call at a fairly late hour, met by Schmidt himself, and invited — probably — into the garage. Yes, I feel sure that it would have been the garage. Being a converted coach house, it is roomy, and it houses a most convenient wheelbarrow. Ezra was offered brandy, which he accepted with avidity. He was then knocked out, placed in the wheelbarrow, and conveyed—probably across the green.

"There was some risk about this, but not very much — Bourne goes early to bed, and I recall that the night was cloudy. Returning home and unobserved, Schmidt must have considered himself safe. The case against Mr. Madoc must have seemed very strong to him, and he would confidently expect a verdict of accidental death in Ezra's case. I cannot praise too highly the acumen of Sgt. Abbott in detecting the dry specks of gravel which had adhered to the mud on Ezra's boots, and his brilliant deduction that Ezra had not walked but been carried to the miry place where he was found."

Miss Sophy heaved herself up from the sofa and announced that she must go to her poor Medora. Ida Mottram embraced Miss Silver, rolled her eyes at Frank and announced with a faint scream that she must fly to Bunty.

But at the door she turned.

"O, Mr. Abbott, I suppose you can't tell me, but it does seem such a pity — those lovely hens of Mr. Everton's — I suppose he wouldn't divide them among us?"

"I'm afraid I couldn't suggest it, Mrs. Mottram."

"O, well——." She departed.

Miss Silver looked after her with affection. Then she turned to Garth and Janice.

"I have a few things to put together in my room. My taxi should be here in about 10 minutes time. Sgt. Abbott will be traveling with me as far as Marbury. It is always a little sad to say good-by at the end of a case, but if the guilty have been discovered and the innocent cleared I am cheered and encouraged. There is no greater cause than justice, and in my humble way I try to serve that cause. May I offer you my very best wishes and my earnest hopes for your happiness?"

She went out — a little dowdy person in garments of out-moded style. Frank Abbott shut the door after her. As he turned back he was seen to be slightly flushed. In a tone so far from official that it actually sounded boyish he exclaimed,

"Marvelous — isn't she!"

If bubble baths are your dish, take note—there's a brand new bubbling bath oil come to market that you can't afford to miss. Even we who ordinarily are a little tepid about bubble baths can get lyrical about this one.

We've never seen anything quite like the mountains of fluffy duffy, billowing bubbles it makes. The tub looks just like a big puff of foamy white cotton and, what is more, it stays that way for a long time. That may be one of the reasons we're so enthusiastic about the preparation. Ordinarily we feel a little cheated when, after a few seconds, all the bubbles melt away into thin air, but in this case they stay on and on until they finally go floating down the drain.

But the most charming part of a bath trimmed with the bubbling oil is the perfectly wonderful fragrance imparted to it. The oil is full of a lovely, light spirit lifting scent that perfumes the water and fills the air with its sweetness. It's a fine blend of floral fragrances with all the heavier notes left out and is as gay as your giddiest bonnet. But, unlike the bubbles, the scent doesn't go sailing down the drain at the end of the bath. Instead, most of it clings to the skin.

A few tablespoons of the oil splashed under a roaring faucet and you have the most luxurious type of bath you could imagine. The water feels soft as silk and ordinary soap seems to make a million more suds.

This isn't expensive as it may sound; you won't feel guilty buying it for yourself and you'll eye it as a perfect Christmas gift for your luxury loving friends.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

So many families have turned to fortified margarines in the butter shortage, that margarines are rationed a pound to a customer at most groceries. In lieu of butter and margarine, families are using cream cheese, peanut butter, more jams and jellies on their breads. Drippings from freshly cooked ham, bacon or sausage make good spreads, too. Bread and gravy and creamed foods served on split biscuits help get around the necessity for butter or margarine.

If your family sneers at green beans as an "ordinary" vegetable, try them on this middle American version, seasoned with bacon fat, onion, tomato, salt and pepper.

Guatemalan Green Beans.
[Serves four to six.]
1 pound green beans
2 tablespoons bacon fat
1 onion, minced
3 tomatoes, chopped
Salt, black pepper, cayenne

Cut washed beans in inch long pieces and cook until tender in as little water as possible. Melt bacon fat; fry onion slowly in it until soft. Add tomatoes and cook to sauce consistency. Season well with salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne, and stir in cooked beans. This recipe may be used with canned or left-over cooked beans.

Try your boiled or broiled fresh salmon steak Norwegian style, with a sour cream and horseradish sauce, for something really delicious. On the smorgasbord the whole salmon is served cold with this whipped creamlike dressing: To a pint of whipped sour cream add ½ cup horseradish, 2 teaspoons sugar and 1 teaspoon vinegar. Commercially soured cream needn't be whipped for this dressing. It is already thick and fluffy in consistency.

Your kitchen sink will be better after the war, manufacturers promise. One company has made a survey of what women want in sinks, and is incorporating these wants into new sink designs. Built-in, concealed garbage units, regulated water temperature and foot pedal operation of faucets, swing out stools, built-in dishwashers and towel drying compartments, storage space for the soaps, cleansers and scouring equipment are what women want and what they're apparently going to get. Rubber covered drainboards to protect china and recessed rubber covered drain racks are other desired changes. The kitchen sink is going super-efficient, and probably will be beautiful, too, not the eye-sore it is in so many kitchens.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES!

Side Buttoning

Side buttoning is the "something different" which sets this house dress apart from the usual humdrum frocks designed for homemakers. Simple rickrack braid is the neckline, sleeve and pocket trimming. Style No. 2562 is designed for sizes 12 to 48. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 35 inch material with 2 yards of rickrack.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The winter fashion book is 15 cents at Public Service offices, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Crowds Gather at Collections of Yule Cards

BY REA SEEGER.

Now's the time the Christmas shopper slides into high speed, as the crowds, already large, are growing. You'll find this true particularly around the Christmas cards.

First choice in the collections are the grand cards designed by the American Artist group, a group, incidentally, that started quite literally from the scratch of a pencil 10 years ago. Its working membership is about 10 times the size of the group which pioneered the idea. For now, with designs done by foremost artists and depicting real American life and scenes, there are cards that please every one. Such delineators of the American scene as Rockwell Kent, Adolf Dehn, Eugene Higgins, Dale Nichols, and 30 others have designed stimulating records of America at Christmas time.

From victory sentiments to old fashioned winter scenes with snow drifts piled up to the eaves, a husky smoking chimney, carol singers, church windows, and humorous ideas—this year's assortment is tremendous. The outstanding card is one by the novelist, Stark Young, of "So Red the Rose" fame.

For the fervent Chicagoans there is a set of boxed cards, each an exquisite etching of some famous building in Chicago, or the skyline off the lake. These are without any yuletide printed greeting, but your own sentiment and name in red ink would make them festive. The paper stock is a deep ivory, the etching in soft black, and they're amazingly low in price.

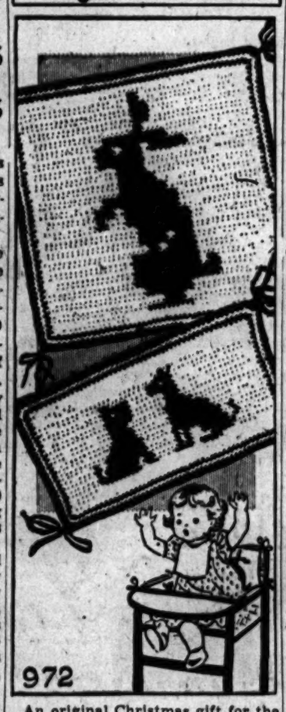
High Chair Set



An original Christmas gift for the small fry set is a crocheted high chair back and seat cover created of white crochet cotton with animals done in contrasting colors. These sets are quick and easy to make.

For instructions in crocheting the high chair set, No. 972, send 10 cents in stamps or coins, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Sally Requests Clothing for 3 Needy Cases

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

We hope our readers can provide a heavy winter coat, size 46, for Mrs. R. She recently was deserted by her husband, and because of illness is unable to work more than one or two days a week. She is an outpatient at a clinic because of a heart ailment and is in need of warm apparel for the coming winter. The address is on the south side.

Mrs. G., on the west side, is in need of clothing, size 34. She is 73 years of age, and her only income is a small pension which allows her a little more than a dollar a day for all her needs. In addition to clothing, she has requested pillow cases. Her linen has become worn out, and she has been unable to purchase more.

Mrs. H. is in need of clothing, size 42, for herself and, size 32 to 34, for her daughter. This woman is a widow, and because of illness was forced to give up work for a long period. She now hopes to obtain employment, but needs suitable clothing, particularly a coat.

Lecture on Mexico.

The Railway Business Woman's association will sponsor a lecture by Mrs. Bertita Harding on "Mexico — the Lady Next Door" at 8 o'clock tonight in Kimball hall, 306 S. Wabash av.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Filled Oatmeal Cookies.
1 cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups flour
¾ teaspoon soda
2 cups rolled oats
2 cups mincemeat

Cream shortening, salt, and vanilla. Add brown sugar and cream until mixture is light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat until well blended. Sift flour once, measure, add soda and sift together twice. Add to the first mixture with rolled oats and mix thoroly. Chill thoroly. Roll the dough ⅛ inch thick and cut with a 2½ inch cooky cutter. Place 1 tablespoon mincemeat in the center of half the rounds, top with the remaining rounds of dough. Press edges together with the tines of a fork and puncture the tops 2 or 3 times to allow steam to escape. Bake on cooky sheets in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, 12 to 15 minutes.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

First Snow.

One of these days it will come. Perhaps we shall be at the office, our minds befogged in a maze of figures and letters, when some one will cry excitedly "Look! It's snowing!"

First snow! From the windows of drab offices eyes will lift, remembering the crunch of old fashioned cutters at holiday time . . . the tinkling of sleigh bells . . . company for dinner . . . mince pie . . . roast turkey . . . walnuts—and the fun of gilding their shells to hang upon the tree . . . winter apples and plump tangerines . . . pine scent . . . wreathed and holly-vested stores and smiling shopping throngs . . . "first" big doll with real hair and eyes that closed . . . "first" shining coaster wagon . . . "first" sleek paneled sled . . . "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

For a moment the office routine will be forgotten. After that one of the girls will say, "I hope it doesn't keep up; my new hat will be drenched," and one of the men will say to a co-worker at the next desk, "Have to get that coal ordered. It'll take a good slice out of the pay check."

Yet for that one magical moment every one of us will be remembering, with lightened heart, those beloved bygone days when "first snow" meant so much more to us than the ruination of a new hat or the price of coal.

But fortunately the spirit of "first snow" will be with us forever because once it meant, as it will again, "Peace on Earth."

EMILY.

Never Thought of It.

Tsk, tsk . . . has no one thought of getting down to business to catch up on her work? LEE.

Note to Callie.

And yet I seem inclined
To doubt that statement just a bit,
For this is what I find:

That men like brains—thank goodness!—and
I therefore can't resist
The observation that you must

So next time I espy a rhyme
About your sad romance

SHIRLEY.

Maybe They Are Not Aware.

The white collar girls have no corner on double deals and brazenly taking bows for other people's ideas. The worst examples I have seen were accomplished by men. No woman could hope to get by with such thievery.

But I, too, shall never be able to understand why the big bosses countenance these things when they are fully aware of them.

VICTIM.

Work for Its Own Sake.

If your efforts are continually blocked, look within and see why. From outward circumstance it may seem a run of unfortunate circumstances. But look a little deeper and see what life is trying to tell you. Suppose you immediately had met with success, would you have been able to handle it? . . . Would you have been satisfied to relax on your laurels after your first effort, and so leave undeveloped your more valuable talents? What is your objective in what you are trying to do? To gain recognition and applause for yourself? Or are you sincerely interested in what you are attempting for its own sake. Work which is done for its own sake has a way of succeeding.

World Service of Y. W. C. A. Is Dinner Theme

A program designed to acquaint Chicago members with world-wide activities of the Young Women's Christian association—which are carried on in more than 50 countries—will be presented at the Chicago branch's annual fall membership meeting and dinner at 6 p. m. on Wednesday in the Loop Center Y. W. C. A., 59 E. Monroe st.

Mrs. Lung Chang King, founder of the Y. W. C. A. of Kunming, China, will come from Washington, D. C., to address the assembly, for which more than 2,000 invitations have gone out. Following her talk, presentation will be made of the Chicago branch's gift of approximately $1,000 to the World Fellowship fund of the national association. The sum was raised thru individual contributions and donations from clubs of industrial, business, and high school girls.

The meeting will be conducted by Miss Lilace Reid Barnes, Chicago branch president. She will introduce to members Miss Essie L. Maguire, new executive secretary, and Mrs. Harold L. Bowman, newly appointed chairman of the membership committee, under whose direction the Wednesday meeting was arranged.

Mrs. Stanley G. Harris of Winnetka is giving a tea at 4 p. m. today in her home for Mrs. King, and at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow Mrs. King will be the special guest of the Loop center Y. W. C. A. The directors and trustees of the Chicago association will entertain at dinner for her tomorrow night at the McCormick residence, 1001 N. Dearborn st.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ.

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠J5 ♥K104 ♦QJ63 ♣10965
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

A.—Three no trump. On the surface it appears that you had said a mouthful when you responded with one no trump, but this hand is better than it looks. It contains six honor cards well distributed, which adds a plus value, and the lack of partner's suit assumes some importance in the sequence of bidding.

Q. 2—Partner opens with one no trump. You hold:
♠J54 ♥Q108 ♦KJ865 ♣J4
What do you bid?

A.—Two no trump. You have just about the high card requirements for a raise. This hand belongs in no trump. Take a big demerit if you made the pointless bid of two diamonds. Never take an opening no trump out in a minor if your hand contains a raise for no trump.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠A10 ♥1054 ♦J75 ♣AK762
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. Since you have a good opening bid yourself and partner has opened the bidding there should be a good play for game. With two unstopped suits no trump cannot be undertaken so that the only available call is a raise in partner's spades. This is practically normal support for a rebid suit.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠Q1057543 ♥10 ♦A103 ♣Q4
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. By this time you must have caught on to the idea that partner has hearts. This is the proper time to let him be the boss. The argument that he must have a spade fit when he jumps in hearts has no sound basis. If he cared anything about spades he would have supported them after you named the suit twice.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠Q653 ♥7 ♦AJ32 ♣10954
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. You had a very fine raise and partner must have a good hand since he is trying for game with only mild encouragement from you. The proper bid is four spades. A mere return to three spades [which would be forced] would deny that you had a good raise.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠Q854 ♥A76 ♦KJ3 ♣A103
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	2 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have opened an absolute minimum and in view of partner's response you can take an oath there is no game in this hand. Any other bid by you will be construed by partner as an effort to reach game. If you are nervous about playing a three card suit you ought not to make these fancy bids.

Q. 7—Opponent opens with four spades. You hold:
♠A5 ♥KQ64 ♦KQJ3 ♣A1042
What do you bid?

A.—Double. This is an awkward situation. It is time the enemy might be talking you out of a game but you have no assurance that you can make five of anything. If partner happens to have a very long suit he is at liberty not to stand for the double. He must know that you are doubling not particularly on spade strength but on outside values.

Q. 8—You and your partner are vulnerable, and he opens with four hearts. You hold:
♠AKQJ1075 ♥— ♦AK63 ♣A4
What do you bid?

A.—Six hearts. In view of the vulnerability your partner's hearts must be very strong. He has nothing on the side. Therefore you should make no effort to play this hand at spades because you will probably never reach his hand. The bid of six hearts is a good gamble. Without a club opening it should be a cinch and even with that opening partner may be able to obtain discards before giving up a possible heart loser.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 12. — Green Bay's Packers, fully aroused by their defeat last week by the Chicago Bears, poured it on the Cleveland Rams this afternoon in League park as they advanced one more step toward the Western division championship of the National Football league. The Packers, who now need only one more victory to clinch their title, scored the first time they had the ball, finished the half leading 21 to 0, and added three more touchdowns in the later periods to win, 42 to 7.

A near capacity crowd of 17,166 watched the Rams absorb their fourth consecutive defeat and their second from the white shirted Packers. Cleveland never had a chance to play on even terms with Green Bay after the Packers' opening score and whatever opportunity they may have had to impress their loyal followers was dissipated by the unusual record of six fumbles and seven pass interceptions by the victors.

Cleveland Line Outclassed.

The detail of Green Bay's conquest for Cleveland fans was as dreary as the gray clouds of this chilly afternoon. Cleveland's line was no match for the Packer forwards and no back ran with the power of Ted Fritsch or Joe Laws.

The adage of the northland that as Don Hutson goes so go the Packers, was proved once more. The veteran end, still the speediest of professionals, caught five of the seven passes Irv Comp aimed at him; scored two touchdowns, and kicked 6 points without an error. Laws matched Hutson's touchdowns while Comp and Paul Duhart scored the others.

Seventh Victory for Packers.

Thus, Green Bay acquired its seventh victory of the campaign as opposed to the 21 to 0 licking by the Bears and now needs to whip either the New York Giants or the Card-Pitts, remaining opponents, to clinch the western title.

The Comp to Hutson combination capped Green Bay's first touchdown drive of four plays the first time the Packers had possession of the ball.

Tom Colella, Cleveland's star left half, then entered the game and returned Glenn Sorenson's kickoff 41 yards, but the Rams had no attack to back up this start. Two unrelated first downs by passing were their only credit marks.

Colella's pass was intercepted by Fritsch, who returned 26 yards to the Rams' 14 yards line early in the second period. Hutson then tried a pass to Jacunski from an end-around play but the ball sailed overhead. On the next play Comp swept around

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The 11th of November has come and gone and Notre Dame has not sought an armistice in its gridiron warfare with the Army. . . . Notre Dame is not the only organization that has learned that 1944 is Uncle Sam's year on land, on the sea, and in the air. . . . There are many in New York today who are criticizing Lt. Col. Earl Blaik, West Point coach, for piling up a 59 to 0 score on the Irish in Yankee stadium yesterday afternoon. . . . They point out that Notre Dame last year and on many other occasions could have rolled up a count equally as decisive, but somehow always managed to slow its attack after acquiring a comfortable lead. . . . None of these complaints originates with Notre Dame men. . . . For one thing, Army had waited 13 years to win a football game from the Irish. . . . The Cadets had been on top only five times in 30 years prior to yesterday's engagement. . . . Nobody can honestly say that Army hadn't demonstrated its ability to take it. . . . The same goes for Notre Dame. . . . That's why the Army-Notre Dame series has been football's greatest attraction these many years. . . .

Coach Ed McKeever and his players swallowed hard as they left the field and then hurried back to South Bend to regroup their forces for a fresh start in 1945. . . . With the exception of Navy, we can think of no college team in the land that could have done much better than did Notre Dame. . . . The Irish were up against an Army team that probably will be recognized as the greatest ever put together. . . . Victory over Navy is all it will take to prove it. . . . Notre Dame now gets back into competition with teams somewhere in its class, Northwestern, Georgia Tech, and Great Lakes. . . . It will be interesting to see how the squad rebounds from the most disastrous two weeks in gridiron conflict in the university's history. . . . If it wins two of the three games . . . no easy assignment . . . McKeever's eleven will have a record of seven victories and three defeats, which is good enough for any school playing the kind of schedule arranged for Notre Dame. . . . The events of the last three weeks, which include that narrow victory over Illinois, prove one point definitely . . . Notre Dame does not have all the great football talent in the land, as many have charged. . . . It has a squad made up substantially of 17 and 18 year old boys who perhaps play a bit harder than do similar groups at other universities because that's the spirit of Notre Dame.

Requiescat.

When my time comes, seek out a clean green field,
Or some clear stream in motion to the sea;
And there my ashes, now as dust revealed,
Just scatter wide and say good-by to me.
I want the sun and wind to have their share,
The rain to wash me when it feels the need;
And night and day to have abiding care
Of this poor clay that knows not any creed.
I want no grave of mine to show neglect,
In that God's acre where so many lie,
Nor need pretentions of a false respect
We all return to that from which we came—
The high and low begin, and end, the same.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Without undue exertion the Bears yesterday whipped Boston's National Football league newcomers, 21 to 7, to round out three full seasons and part of another as kings in their own back yard, Wrigley field. It was the 20th victory in 21 games there since a November, 1941, loss to the Green Bay Packers. The odd game was a 21 to 21 tie in Cubs park against Detroit earlier in the season.

The Bears, still shyly watching the adventures of the Packers, received no score board solace when the Western division leaders routed the Rams yesterday, 42 to 7. Now the Packers need only one more victory for the clincher even if the Bears win their remaining three road games. If they fail next Sunday they should get in on Nov. 26 against the Card-Pitts in Comiskey park.

Luckman Hurls 3 Scoring Passes.

Sid Luckman was right in the middle of the Bears' Chicago farewell. He hurled three touchdown passes in the course of completing 15 of 24 flips for 247 yards for his best passing day of the season. Two of them were caught by Ray McLean, who had to run like everything on both of them to get over the goal line. The second one, right after the Yanks had tied the score at 7 to 7 in the third quarter, covered 86 yards including a 45 yard dash by the Scooter, who pulled away from Bob Davis, Boston's speed boy from Kentucky. Capt. George Wilson made the other score, the ball being delivered to him back of the goal line in the fourth period. After each score Pete Gudauskas added the extra point, boosting his record to 21 out of 22.

The autumnal weather remained friendly until the end and the 19,374 spectators could hardly believe their eyes as they watched four gal cheer leaders bouncing around in shorts in front of the band out near the center field bleachers.

Margarita Halts Yanks' March.

Frisky running by Bob Margarita, Jim Fordham, and Gary Famiglietti was mixed in with Luckman's air bombardment. Margarita had 11 tries for 47 yards, Fordham 9 for 33, and Famiglietti 9 for 49. Boston's top runners were George Cafego, 5 for 43, and Bob Davis, 12 for 41. Cafego, Scott Gudmondson, and

CANADIENS' O'CONNOR PUSHES PUCK PAST KARAKAS

Buddy O'Connor, Montreal Canadiens' center, scoring the first goal against Chicago's Blackhawks in the Stadium last night, after Mike Karakas, Hawks' goalie, had advanced to meet the charge. O'Connor had taken the puck on a pass from Leo Lamoureaux after the latter had skated the length of the rink. Other Blackhawks seen are Harvey Fraser (No. 15) and Earl Seibert (No. 17).

Giants Rally, Gain 21-21 Tie with Eagles

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP).—A last period rally by the New York Giants that piled up two touchdowns and extra points tied up the Philadelphia Eagles, 21 to 21, today before 33,248, the second largest crowd in the history of professional football in Shibe park.

The prospects of the Eagles maintaining their tie with the Washington Redskins for the Eastern division crown looked bright until the final period when Arnie Herber took to the air for the Giants.

Scoring Play Called Back.

Shooting a long pass from behind his own goal, Herber connected with O'Neale Adams, who raced to the Eagles' 15 where he lateraled to Frank Liebel who went over. The play was called back, however, when Adams was ruled ineligible to receive. Herber's next pass from the 12 to Howard Livingston in the end zone gave the Giants their second touchdown of the game in the final period. Ken Strong kicked the extra point.

After penetrating to the Eagles' 42, the Giants again relied on Herber's aerial prowess and he flipped a long one to Liebel on the 22. Ernie Steele nailed him on the goal line but Liebel dropped across to score.

Second Field Goal Try Blocked.

Zimmerman tried to turn the tide in the remaining seconds with an aerial attack but Livingston intercepted the pass and set up a field goal try on the 43. Strong kicked a perfect field goal in the last 29 seconds but play was called back and the Giants penalized.

Sammy Baugh got off a poor kick from his end zone and the Tigers, who now have lost seven straight games, challenged again from the 17. But a 15 yard penalty stymied the attack and the Redskins went all the way in one play—a Baugh to Bob Seymour aerial that covered 71 yards.

CHICAGO RACING CLOSES RECORD SEASON; NEW HIGH FOR CHARITY

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Thorobred racing in Chicago passed out of the 1944 scene last Saturday with a flourish. The closing afternoon of the Chicago Tribune Charities' six day meeting saw 15,000 fans brave threatening skies to set a new wagering record for a single program at Sportsman's Park, the sporty little half mile plant in Cicero.

The mutuel handle was $975,776. This raised the betting for the week to $4,334,910, net proceeds of which will be turned over by President John L. Keeshin of the National Jockey club, agents for the meeting, for distribution by the Tribune organization to welfare and service funds.

Contribution Exceeds Million.

Earlier in the year $400,800 was accumulated at a five day meeting sponsored by the Tribune Charities at Washington Park, a meeting made possible thru coöperation of all five Chicago tracks.

Exact figures on charity's share of the Sportaman's Park meeting will be available after an audit, but according to Keeshin the net proceeds will be more than $200,000. That amount, by the way, will put Sportsman's representation in charity's list above $300,000 and raise Illinois racing's contribution for the year to approximately $1,100,000.

Big Increase in Wagering.

Wagering during the 168 days of racing in Chicago this year amounted to $144,188,898 as compared with $96,199,954 in 1943, an increase of approximately 33 per cent.

CARD-PITTS DO THE WORK, BUT LIONS WIN, 21-7

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Detroit Lions, scoring in every period except the third, dealt the Cardinal-Pittsburgh football team its seventh straight National football league reverse, 21 to 7, today before 13,239 fans.

Frank Sinkwich scored two of the Detroit touchdowns, set up the other with a 19 yard pass to Bob Westfall and kicked all three extra points as the Lions registered their second victory over the Card-Pitt outfit in eight days.

Johnny Grigas, Card-Pitt full back who went into the game as the league's second best ground gainer, reeled off 123 yards rushing, 46 more than the entire Lion back field, and completed 13 of 30 passes for a pitching total of 177 yards. He thus ran or threw for all but 38 yards of his club's net production of 338 yards for the day.

Half Back Bobby Thurbon climaxed a 70 yard Card-Pitt march by diving across from the one yard line to count his team's only touchdown in the fourth quarter.

SUPERBOMBERS WIN, 20-0, OVER FORT WARREN

Denver, Colo., Nov. 12 (AP).—Scoring all their points in the second half, the 2d Air Force Superbombers beat Fort Warren, 20 to 0, today for the Rocky Mountain service football title.

Lt. Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa university completed seven of 18 passes for 100 yards, setting up two of the scores.

Rangers Tie Bruins in 3d Period, 5 to 5

New York, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Boston Bruins put on a third period scoring spree tonight to ring up three goals in a minute and 35 seconds to gain a 5-5 tie with the New York Rangers in the National Hockey league. Bill Cowley scored two goals in the belated flurry.

The determined Bruins got into the game at 11:58 when Rookie Gino Rossini drove home a goal in one of their many power plays. Cowley's first tally came at 12:59 and was rather flukey. The puck barely trickled into the goal after a Ranger defenseman had partly blocked it. Cowley came right back to tie the score at 13:33 with a clean shot and neither team could break thru again.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings broke a six game Toronto winning streak tonight, dealing the Maple Leafs their first setback of the National Hockey league season, 4 to 2, before 13,384.

The Red Wings never trailed, but Toronto came from behind twice to tie the score before Defenseman Bill Quackenbush registered on a neat pass from Murray Armstrong to put the Wings ahead 3 to 2 four minutes after the final period opened. Rookie Ted Lindsay's goal a minute and a quarter from the finish sewed up the decision.

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Charles A. Robbins, attached to the Chelsea, Mass., naval hospital, today won the National A. A. U. marathon at the Empire City race track.

The 24 year old pharmacist's mate, who finished 15th in last year's event, covered the 26 miles and 385 yards in 2:40.48 6-10, to lead a field of 24 out of 45 starters. Robbins finished about a half mile ahead of Don Heinicke of the White Horse club, Baltimore, second. John E. Kelley of West Acton, Mass., the pre-race favorite was fourth and Anthony Mederious, New Medford club, Medford, Mass., third.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A crowd of 16,363 Blackhawk loyalists last night saw our boys lose their third straight Sunday night engagement in Chicago Stadium—but the world champion Montreal Canadiens were able to spank them only by the narrow count of 4 to 2.

The game was a fine demonstration of the reward of fan patience. So great was the Hawk improvement over the two earlier Sabbath failures here that the loyal customers accepted the performance as one of those "moral victories."

Perfectly Behaved Loyalists.

In the season opener 18,618 saw the team, near collapse from stage fright, suffer an 11 to 5 trimming at the hands of Toronto. A week ago 16,707 fans, including a few impatient debris and penny throwing hoodlums, saw the boys flop, 6 to 2, before the Boston Bruins. But last night, before those 16,363 loyalists, all perfectly behaved, the lads skated like everything and, for the first time in their series of Sabbath galas, seemed to have a plan of action.

The veteran defense men continued to skid and stumble quite a bit but the forwards, newcomers, and oldsters alike, seemed to know at all times what they were trying to do.

Hawk Defense Weak.

The score actually was tied at one-all at the end of the first period. Buddy O'Connor scored for the Canadiens after getting in on top of Goalie Mike Karakas at a time when the defense were suspected of having left the rink in quest of popcorn or something.

But in the last minute of the first period Harvey Fraser, a Vancouver amateur at the start of the season, tied the count, assisted by Earl Seibert and Fido Purpur. Fraser, by the way, assisted on the first of two Chicago goals the Sunday fans saw a week ago and scored the second one. Also, he scored both of the goals the Hawks made against the Canadiens in Montreal last Thursday night.

Richard Scores for Canadiens.

The Canadiens took a 2 to 1 lead in 8:42 of the second period while Pete Horeck, the penalty box kid, was serving his second term of the session. It was made by Maurice Richard after Elmer Lach had passed from behind the cage at the Hawk defenders apparently had him pinned against the boards.

The goal which proved to be the pay-off was scored by Ray Getliffe, assisted by Murph Chamberlain in 11:20 of the second period. A goal by Toe Blake on assists by Bob Filion and Chamberlain gave the Canadiens a 4 to 1 edge in 3:57 of the final period.

The Hawks' second goal was produced in 6:39 of the third period, and strangely enough, Fraser had no part in it. Bill Mosienko, who gradually is skating into shape, was the tally man, assisted by Clint Smith and Horeck.

McLean Scores Pair of Victors' Touchdowns.

Penalties on both sides made the first quarter a futile one. Johnny Martin raced back 55 yards with the opening kick-off and the Yanks bounced down to the 30 where they lost the ball on Margarita's interception. The Bears, unofficially, then reached Boston's 8, but this passlateral play for 24 yards was voided when the Chicagoans had an illegal man down field. As the scoreless period ended the Yanks had the ball on their 42 yard line.

73 Yard Scoring Drive.

The Yanks were a yard away from midfield when McLean made a leaping interception of Cafego's pass as the second quarter opened. He returned the ball 6 yards to the Bears' 27. From there, Luckman engineered a 73 yards scoring drive on five plays, Margarita hit for 4, then was held for no gain. Connie Berry took a 12 yards pass from Sid. Famiglietti, on a delayed buck, slammed thru center for 16 yards to Boston's 35. Luckman, hemmed in, managed to get the ball away to McLean on the 14, and the Scooter won a battle with Cafego for the ball and ran for a touchdown.

Later in the quarter the Bears missed two scoring chances. An exchange of punts put them only 36 yards away. They reached the 15 but on the next play Famiglietti fumbled, Thron Riggs recovering. The Yanks couldn't gain and Martin's punt rolled dead on his 31. The Bears were on the 17, but Martin intercepted Luckman's pass on the goal line just before the half ended.

Cafego Directs Yanks' Attack.

Margarita came back 22 yards to his 25 with the second half kickoff. The Bears swept down the field by air and land to Boston's 14. This scoring bid was stopped by Cafego. He intercepted Luckman's pass on his 7 and sped down the sideline to his 47 before being crowded out. Then the Yanks struck for the tying score, with Cafego directing the attack.

The first big gain was Cafego's pass to Joe Crowley, covering 28 yards to the Bears' 29. Cafego went back to pass again, but ran for 13 yards. His fourth down pass, hurled after the Yanks had reached the 12 was taken by Crowley on the 1. He stepped over and Augie Lio's kick tied the count.

Lio's Field Goal Effort Misses.

After the kickoff, the Bears were in trouble again. Davis took Luckman's punt on his 42 and in a dodging run, aided by fine interference, raced to the Bears' 26. The Yanks were a yard short of a first down on the 17 and hit on the somewhat doubtful strategy of parking Lio on the 28 for a field goal attempt. It was wide to the left.

Margarita dashed for 7 to the 27, but the Bears were penalized to their 10 for holding. Fordham smashed for 4 but on the next play was smeared at the line of scrimmage. This led to Luckman's decisive pitch, a high one which soared over the head of Davis, Boston safety man. McLean grabbed it on the Yanks' 45 and without breaking stride kept going with Davis in fruitless pursuit. This thriller came only 15 seconds before the third quarter ended.

Wilson Catches Touchdown Pass.

The Yanks bounced back early in the fourth quarter with score trying ideas. Gudmonson hurled a tremendous pass to Harry Wynne, who fumbled at the Bears' 35. Doug McEnulty recovered on the 33 and ran 11 yards. Eight plays were required in the 66 yard scoring journey. Fordham got 4 and Margarita crawled thru center for 11. After Fordham gained 4 yards in two smacks Luckman passed to Rudy Smeja, who was forced out on the 24 after a 13 yard gain. Margarita slashed for 3. After McLean dropped Luckman's pitch on the 12, Fordham slammed 10 to the 11. McLean got 2 on a reverse. On the next play, Wilson caught Luckman's touchdown flip in the end zone.

After this the Yanks ran and passed to the Chicago 11, but the Bears held and froze the ball to the finish. Statistics:

St. Ignatius, 26; St. Mel, 6.

South Section.

Leo, 21; De La Salle, 2.

Fenwick, north section champion of the Catholic league, concluded its regular season yesterday by trouncing De Paul academy, 36 to 13, in Hanson park.

The victory was the Friars' sixth straight, and served as a conditioning contest for next Sunday's title game, when Fenwick meets Weber, champion of the south section, for the Catholic title. Weber rested yesterday.

Scoreless First Period.

Fenwick was held to a scoreless first period by the De Paul team that registered only one victory in six league appearances. In the second quarter, Fenwick started moving, and at the half, the Friars led, 14 to 0. Sixteen additional points were added in the third period, and six more in the fourth, when De La Salle made its 13 points.

During the league season Fenwick scored 156 points while limiting opponents to 37. The Friars' record is marred only by a 0 to 0 tie with St. Rita in a pre-season practice game.

St. George Wins, 32 to 0.

In other north section games Bill Hickey scored three touchdowns as St. Ignatius defeated St. Mel, 26 to 6, in Key Branch stadium, and St. George, north section champions last year, routed St. Patrick, 32 to 0, in Evanston.

In the south section Leo finished in second place by defeating De La Salle, 21 to 2, in Shewbridge field, with Bob Kozlowski running 72 yards in the third period for one of the Leo touchdowns. The De La Salle score, a safety, was charged against a Leo half back, Don McAuliffe.

Caravan Routs St. Rita.

Mount Carmel's Caravan demonstrated a flash of its early season power by trouncing St. Rita, 53 to 7, in Yates Avenue stadium, with Jack [Jocko] O'Leary leading the scoring parade by running for three touchdowns.

In the third south section meeting, in Loyola stadium, Loyola turned back Catholic High of Joliet, 14 to 6, for its second victory of the season. The loss was Joliet's sixth straight.

Packers Rout Rams, 42 to 7; 7th Triumph

Drive 60 Yards in 10 Plays.

The Packers' third touchdown required more effort, but the drive of 60 yards in 10 plays thoroly demonstrated Cleveland's weaknesses. Laws opened with a 9 yard plunge and with Duhart put the ball on Cleveland's 48. Again the Packers relied on Comp and Hutson and the latter got away from Colella and Harvey Jones for a 34 yard gain. Don Perkins, Duhart, Laws, and Fritsch carried in succession for a first down on Cleveland's 4 yard line. On the next play Laws cut back over right guard for the touchdown.

Cleveland's touchdown on its second scrimmage play of the third quarter, which cut the Packers' lead to 21 to 7, merely revived Green Bay's determination. Momentarily it did seem that Albie Reisz's 46 yard run might put the Rams back into the contest. The crowd scarcely had finished cheering Reisz and Lou Zontini, who kicked the point, before Green Bay was back in production.

The assault began on Green Bay's 46 and the second play of the series, as could be expected, was a Comp to Hutson bomb for 15 yards and a first down on Cleveland's 35. Laws got 9 yards in two thrusts and Perkins added 18 on a sprint around defensive right end. Fritsch smashed for 3 yards and Laws finished the sortie over guard for the touchdown.

Duhart Intercepts Pass.

Midway in the last period Duhart's interception of Dave Barnard's pass and his 15 yard return signaled a Packer attack from Cleveland's 35 yard line. Fritsch raced round defensive right end for 17 yards and Perkins got 4 more at the other end. Comp then passed to Hutson but Mike Kabealo was in position to intercept. The ball struck his hands, however, and then bounded in the air and to Hutson standing in the end zone.

The final Packer touchdown was of the same variety.

HAKOAH, SPARTA REPLAY RESULTS IN ANOTHER TIE

BY OFFSIDE.

The Hakoah-Centers and Sparta, attempting to reach a decision in their semi-final round game in the B division of the National Soccer league's cup competition, played to a second consecutive deadlock yesterday afternoon in Sparta stadium after Necaxa had beaten Hansa, 2 to 1, in a sixth round cup game in division C.

Yesterday's Hakoah-Sparta game was a replay of their 3 to 3 tie of the previous week, when darkness had halted proceedings after they had battled thru the regulation 90 minutes and approximately 10 minutes of overtime action. The replay found them tied at 1 to 1 at the conclusion of regulation playing time yesterday. After one 30 minute extra period had failed to produce a decision they started another, but darkness overtook them while the 1 to 1 tie still prevailed. The duration of their no-decision fight now totals almost four hours.

Special Meeting Tonight.

The Illinois State Soccer commission is to hold a special meeting in the Sherman hotel at 8 o'clock tonight to arrange the Peel Cup series pairings, and the date and site of a second replay between the Hakoahs and Spartas may be set at that time.

The Hakoahs did most of the attacking in the early minutes of yesterday's game but Max Pearlman, with chances to score, drove high over the bar and the first half ended scoreless. Eric Klaber booted the ball over Steve Burda's head to score for Hakoah in the second half, but Joe Silovsky shot into an open net to tie the count only a few minutes later.

Decided by Lazcano's Goal.

The Necaxa and Hansa game also was an extra period battle. It was decided by Gonzalo Lazcano's goal when only four minutes of the 30 minutes of overtime play remained. First Mario Aguilar of Necaxa and then Otto Benesch of Hansa scored during the regulation playing time.

Yesterday's scores:

Class B, Replay.

Class C, Sixth Round.

Necaxa, 2; Hansa, 1.

State Second Round.

Vikings, 6; Chicago S. C., 0.

EXHIBITION GAMES.

Slovaks, 3; Linnea, 1.
Vikings Reserves, 2; Kickers, 2.

JUVENILE NOVICE MATCHES.

Hamlin Park, 1; Ogden Park, 0.
Portage Park, 6; Franklin Park, 2.
Smith Field, 2; Avondale, 0.

PARSONS MEETS RICHARDSON IN MARIGOLD FIGHT

Bobby Richardson, 1942 Chicagoland Golden Gloves welterweight finalist, will meet Bill Parsons of Danville, Ill., in quest of his fourth straight victory in a 10 round return bout tonight in Marigold gardens, Broadway and Grace st.

Robert Fowler, Nashville [Tenn.] welterweight, now making his home in Chicago, will give Ace Miller of Los Angeles his second test in this city in a six round semi-windup this evening. Miller defeated Corp. Dave Bruce of Baer field, Ind., last Monday, but is expected to encounter stiffer opposition against Fowler, who has not been beaten since last June.

Mel Peters, heavyweight wrestler from Fort Sheridan, and Miguel Torres will headline a mat show tonight in White City, 63d st. and South Park av.

STROHS TRAIL BY 178 PINS IN DUEL WITH E-B TEAM

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12 [Special].—In the wildest scoring battle seen in Detroit in many a day, the high powered E. & B. bowling team beat the National Match Game Champion Stroh at its own game and took a lead of 178 pins in the first half of the struggle for the state title tonight.

Winner of the first block by 85 pins, E. & B. won the afternoon session today, 3048 to 3035, to boost the lead to 98 sticks. That was just a prelude, however, for the real show. That came tonight when Strohs fired a 3217 pins and lost by 80 pins. Scores:

MACHA'S DIG

BUYING STOLEN TIRES CHARGED TO JACK KOEHNE

Vice President of Studio Freed on Bond.

Jack William Louis Koehne, 42, of 1220 Westview rd., Glenview, vice president of the Koehne Studios, Inc., at 17 N. State st., one of the oldest photographic studios in the loop, was at liberty on $2,000 bond last night on a charge of receiving stolen property.

The charge grew out of Koehne's purchase a week ago of four new automobile tires which had been stripped from a new car in storage in a garage at 6342 Dorchester av. Koehne said last night that he purchased the tires innocently. When he learned later that they had been stolen, he said, he voluntarily surrendered them to Woodlawn police. That was Saturday.

Two Others Also Accused.

Subsequently Koehne and two others, Duane Douglas, 1504 E. 65th st., and Leo Cargill, 6106 Blackstone av., were charged with receiving stolen property. They are to appear in Felony court today.

The Dorchester av. garage, operated by Irving Rosen, is used by Lawlor Brothers, 6900 Vincennes av., as a storage place for 22 1942 Ford cars, reserved for purchase by the police department as replacement for present equipment as it wears out.

Recently, Woodlawn police said, Rosen went on vacation, leaving the garage in charge of George Kyser, 1504 E. 66th pl.

Say Two Confessed.

Kyser and another garage employe, Robert Cruzen, 22, of 4501 Lake Park av., were held last night by Woodlawn police on open charges. Police said they confessed stripping 12 of the new cars in storage of tires, carburetors, heaters, and other equipment and selling the parts. Most of the stolen equipment has been recovered, police said. The total loot, police said, was worth approximately $1,500.

At the time of his arrest, Koehne gave his address as 917 Castlewood ter., where his father, the founder of the Koehne studio, William Louis Koehne, formerly lived. Subsequently the elder Koehne leased the house and moved to the Whitehall apartments.

Friend of Year Raped Her, Young Woman Charges

Henry Rodger, 35, of 3231 Lituanica av., was held yesterday for questioning in the state's attorney's office about a complaint made by a young woman who asserted he raped her Friday night after they had visited a number of taverns. The woman, who is a machinist in a war plant, said Rodger drove her in his car to a point south of Chicago where the alleged attack was committed. She admitted she had been going with Rodger for about a year.

FIREBALL FLYER MARKS YEAR OF OCEAN HOPPING

Runs to India and Way Points.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Fireball Express, the world's longest, fastest air freight line, prepared to celebrate its first anniversary this week—with business as usual.

Destination will be India, with flag stops in Brazil, the African Gold Coast, Egypt, and Aden at the mouth of the Red sea, when the giant flying box cars operated by the air transport command's ferrying division rise from the runways at the Miami terminus.

14,000 Mile Round Trip.

Pilots will glance over their shoulders to see a famed movie star bound for the G. I. circuit, a cargo of ammunition or spare parts, or maybe just a load of cabbages and onions tagged for lonely Ascension Island.

In 1943, Lt. Col. Joseph C. Mackey, commander of the first foreign transport group, was given the job of organizing the 14,000 mile round trip air express route to keep vital war material moving between the United States, India, and way points.

On Thursday, it will be exactly one year since the Fireball started highballing.

Seven Million Miles Flown.

In that time, Fireball crews have flown 7,000,000 miles with only two casualties. No passengers have been injured.

Close to 40,000,000 ton miles of cargo, mail, and passengers have been carried.

The original Fireball Express took 10 days to complete the ocean spanning round trip. Recently a streamlined flying box car hung up a new record in time for the anniversary celebration by settling down on the Miami headquarters field runway just six days 10 hours and 1[illegible] minutes after taking off for India.

100,000 PUPILS IN WASTE PAPER DRIVE ON FRIDAY

More than 100,000 pupils of the 40 Chicago public high schools will participate in a pickup of waste paper Friday in an effort to break the American metropolitan record of almost 500 tons set by the schools in a one day effort last spring. A prize will go to the school leading the list, and war production board citations will be awarded to the leading school in each of the five Chicago districts.

Under new rules, a school that picks up paper on Saturday may include it in the total. Waste paper is still the most critically needed war material. The national record is held by the Kelley High school with a one day pickup of 160,000 pounds.

Harrison High school will sponsor a waste paper fiesta starting today and ending in a waste paper dance Nov. 21 at which a paper queen will be crowned. Yesterday students of Marshall High school collected an estimated 10 tons of paper in a horse and wagon drive on the west side. Several hundred students and 10 teams of horses participated.

SON DECORATED, LISTED MISSING FIVE DAYS LATER

MR. AND MRS. ELLIS H. DOANE, 555 S. Lincoln av., Aurora, were notified last Tuesday by the navy that their son, Lt. [j. g.] Judson Doane, 25, had been awarded the distinguished flying cross for heroism in the South Pacific. Yesterday they were notified that he is missing in action. Lt. Doane is a graduate of East High school in Aurora.

PVT. STANLEY JURGELONIS, 19, of 618 College av., Aurora, previously reported missing in action in France, was killed in action Oct. 16, his mother, Mrs. Lucy Jurgelonis, was informed yesterday by the war department. Pvt. Jurgelonis was a graduate of East High school at Aurora.

Arguments in AP Case Delayed by Illness

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP).—Arguments before the Supreme court on the appeal in the government's civil anti-trust suit against the Associated Press, scheduled for tomorrow, have been postponed. Harold Willey, deputy court clerk, said tonight an indefinite postponement had been granted at the request of counsel for the AP because of illness in the family of John T. Cahill, the AP's chief counsel.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TRADE RIVALRY AMONG ALLIES MARS HARMONY

Iranian Oil Dispute First in Open.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP).—A fierce commercial rivalry is beginning to develop among the allies. Unless kept in bounds it could grow into economic war that would nullify military and political plans for preserving peace.

This is the interpretation placed by American political and economic authorities on several current incidents, ranging from the Anglo-American-Russian competition for Iranian oil to negotiations over next year's British lend-lease requirements.

Predict Revived Nationalism.

The commercial conflicts setting in as the European war moves toward its close are generally considered by officials here to be inevitable. The fear is that they may coincide with a wave of nationalism, resulting in tariff barriers, import and export quota controls, and finally economic war between governments controled economies.

"I'm afraid that a lot of people have been just waiting for the big final international conference to produce a ready-made utopia," one official said. "It isn't going to happen that way. The end of the war is certain to bring a reversion to nationalism.

"That could express itself most violently in trade rivalries and in attempts to develop self-sufficient national economies in many countries. To prevent that in the interest of international coöperation will be an enormous job."

Various Pacts Proposed.

The allied countries have made a start toward prevention in setting up an international oil agreement, proposing various other agreements at such meetings as the current aviation conference at Chicago, and providing for an economic and social council in the proposed world peace organization.

Meanwhile here are some of the conflicting economic conditions and developments:

The United States government has laid down a basic policy of free world trade. It is opposed to special preferential agreements among a few countries and to preference systems such as that of the British empire.

The British are undecided. Their empire finances are virtually bankrupt, as they may soon tell the world officially in a "white paper." It is understood that within the British government is a controversy over economic collaboration versus a "lone hand" policy.

Russia an Enigma.

Russia remains an enigma. Some officials regard it as a foreign trade nation. Others predict the Russians will export only enough goods and raw materials to import machines and skill they need for rebuilding their domestic economy.

Uncertainty of Russian policy is marked in Iran. A British company has an oil concession there and an American group was negotiating for one when the Russians stepped in with their usual hard handed diplomacy. The Iran government wouldn't submit to the Russian demands and called off the American negotiations. Finally it had to resign. In 1919 the Russians gave up a similar concession, renouncing economic imperialism. There is some belief they may be getting back in the game.

The British denounced, until finally American officials denied it, a report that United States business men were operating in army officers' uniforms in Paris immediately after its liberation.

Dispute Lend-Lease Use.

American business men long have alleged British use of American lend-lease supplies for their own commercial benefit and the British have denied this.

British production officials and American lend-lease experts have been estimating their 1945 requirements for months. All have denied any British intention to reëxport lend-lease goods in commercial channels.

Yet the British have told the American government quite frankly that they intend to build up their export trade to the limit when the European war ends. They point out that American interests will be doing the same thing.

British officials say their basic position is that the United States must go along with Britain on economic measures to build up the nation—else Britain will go under and this country lose its oldest ally in the European area.

They insist that unless the United States helps them rebuild and develop a free trade in a free world economy they will be compelled to switch over to some form of a state controled economy in the course of a ruthless fight for markets.

U. S. PIPE LINES SHOW PROFITS, JONES ASSERTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP).—Secretary of Commerce Jones today released figures indicating that the government's two oil pipe lines—Big Inch and Little Big Inch—are returning a net profit of about $100,000 a day.

But the entire government program of oil transportation is in the red between 200 and 250 million dollars, officials of Defense Supplies corporation said, because of the payment of subsidies to eastern oil companies which ship by tank cars and tankers.

DSC supervises the pipe lines as part of its program to equalize the cost of all petroleum products moved to the east. Jones told a reporter the lines made an average net profit of 20.5 cents per barrel of crude oil delivered and 17.2 cents for petroleum products. He said the lines should be able to operate after the war in competition with ocean tankers and other transportation facilities moving petroleum from the southeast to the east.

FRENCH ARRIVE FOR BUSINESS GROUP PARLEYS

Rye, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—The French delegation to the international business conference made a belated appearance today, completing the roster of nations whose representatives are discussing post-war trade problems.

After a week-end lull the delegates were ready for a discussion of definite proposals on such subjects as cartels, currency relations among nations, commercial policy of nations and encouragement and protection of investments. These are four of the eight subjects with which the conference is concerning itself.

The head of the French delegation is Ernest Mercier, Paris industrialist who has been designated chairman of the conference group on the commercial policy of nations. This is one of the principal topics which this conference of business men from 52 nations is considering, for it deals principally with the question of tariffs and foreign trade controls.

Seventh Canadian War Loan Oversubscribed

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 12 (AP).—Canada's 7th victory loan, on the basis of preliminary returns, was oversubscribed by more than $102,956,000 at the close Saturday of a three week campaign for 1 billion 300 million dollars, the largest amount ever sought thru public borrowing in Canadian history, war finance committee officials announced tonight.

Senate to Study Higher Minimum Wage Basis

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP).—Senate hearings will begin Friday on a measure to define wages below 65 cents an hour as "substandard" as a guide to the war labor board. The present minimum wage law fixes the wage floor at 40 cents an hour.

Tools Offered Britain at Fair Market Price

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers said today the government is demanding a "reasonable businesslike settlement" in closing a deal with Britain for more than 110 million dollars in lend-lease machine tools.

In its weekly publication the N. A. M. said that such a settlement "may indicate that the 'give away' boys in FEA [foreign economic administration], the state department, and the White House have lost their fight for a complete write-off of all lend-lease."

It said the position adopted by the government is that full estimated peace time value of each tool be paid; that the British manufacturer agree that the tool shall not be reëxported without the expressed consent of the American government and under no circumstances shall any of these tools ever be resold into the American markets; that if the British government cares to accept these terms they must apply to all of the machine tools under consideration.

"In other words," the N. A. M. News added, "the British can not cull out the more efficient tools to keep, and return the worn out, obsolete tools to us."

BOOST MEAT PURCHASES

Meat buying for lend-lease, held down for several weeks, has been stepped up rapidly, the department of agriculture disclosed. Contracts issued to packers in October for new tonnage called for almost double the amount bought three months ago.

Pork contracts made last month were the largest since May and 20 times deliveries during August. More than 80 per cent will be fresh frozen meat.

Reports that United States bacon was not liked in England were said to account for the large percentage of fresh pork demanded. The English prefer leaner meats and are depending on Canada for most of their bacon. A few months ago cured pork comprised more than half of the lend-lease purchases.

Purchases of canned meats were the largest in two months and five times more than the year's low month. Lard buying was the biggest since June and 11 times larger than in August.

The department reported that contracts were issued in the four October weeks for 82,941,000 pounds of all meats, exclusive of lard, compared with 69,461,000 in September, and a 1944 low of 42,839,000 in July.

People and Events

Prof. Ralph Oakes of De Paul university's college of commerce today will discuss sales potentials at a luncheon of the Chicago chapter of the American Marketing association in Harding's grill, 109 W. Madison st. At another meeting Thursday noon Bradley P. Williams, research director of the Masonite company, will talk on the objectives of market analysis.

Dr. Ernest H. Volwiler, vice president in charge of research and development of Abbott Laboratories, will discuss new developments in medicinals at a luncheon in the La Salle hotel Wednesday sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Other speakers will be R. C. Newton, vice president of Swift & Co., and J. K. Roberts, director of research of the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

Northwest Airlines appointed George D. Knox, former traffic representative in Chicago, as assistant traffic manager for the Chicago office. John S. Nankervis of Minneapolis, Minn., succeeds Knox as traffic representative.

James De Camp Wise has been elected president of Bigelow-Sanford Carpet company, succeeding the late John A. Sweetser. Wise has been general counsel since 1932 and a director since 1939.

W. E. Heimerdinger has been appointed acting assistant chief engineer of the Rock Island Lines with headquarters in Chicago. He formerly was division superintendent at Rock Island, Ill.

The appointment of E. J. Eldridge as general purchasing agent of Certain-teed Products corporation was announced by Rawson G. Lizars, president. Eldridge will continue as general traffic manager.

Yes, We Want No Sales, Say Parts Makers

"Cancellation prizes" were offered to customers thru a sign posted by a piston manufacturer on his booth at the National Standard Parts association convention in the Hotel Sherman. To those approaching his booth, this manufacturer's immediate inquiry was: "A cancellation for you, I hope!"

He explained that his company's business had at least trebled during the war. Before the war his company was engaged almost exclusively in production of automobile pistons, he said.

Behind Delivery Schedule.

Almost half his production during the war has been diverted to aircraft pistons and altho the rest of his output is automotive pistons, most are sold to the services.

He said that his company was six to eight months behind scheduled deliveries with no cancellations in sight. He explained that his company's output of aircraft parts is large and that this is true of almost the entire industry because its equipment and engineering facilities were adaptable to such output.

He said that reconversion would present no major problem for his company or industry because retooling will not be necessary and emphasis need only be returned to automotive products.

Few Expect Difficulty.

Spokesmen for other manufacturers were agreed that reconversion would not be difficult. The only exceptions will be those manufacturers who left their immediate field and went into munitions production or such unrelated field.

A spokesman for a manufacturer of bearings for aircraft, tanks, and gun carriages said his company would have no trouble in resuming production of bearings for farm machinery.

"We'll get back into making agricultural bearings as fast as the government will let us," he said. "It will only be a matter of dusting off our old tools stored during the war and selling back to the government or salvaging tools which may no longer be needed."

PREDICTS STEEL OUTPUT RATE TO CONTINUE HIGH

Cleveland, O., Nov. 12 (AP).—The magazine Steel said today that "sustained steel production thru the first quarter of 1945 seems assured by requirements certified to the war production board for that period, which are equal to 110 per cent of production capacity."

Steel said many war contractors apparently had "cut inventories too closely" because of optimism over the allies' European successes "and now are seeking to rebuild for a longer pull."

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRONICS.

Having seen many references to expansion in the field of electronics, I should like to know what are some of the chief industrial applications of this new science.—W. I.

Altho the public is most familiar with electronics in the form of radio and X-rays, the practical application of relatively new electronic devices in industrial processes are numerous. To men in factories it is a working tool which is speeding production and improving quality, just as radar is a new working tool in the business of war.

Among producers who have described the industrial uses of electronics is Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, which says that "it serves in a thousand ways" to improve products.

Electronic tubes control the flow of power over transmission lines, expose flaws inside metal parts, or search out small sources of vibration in airplane propellers and other apparatus. Thru electronic means, motor speed and acceleration are accurately controled. High frequency heat generated by such tubes is employed in the flowing of tin on strip steel in the electroplating process, in the bonding of plywood, and in the molding of plastics.

Electronic rectifiers convert alternating current into the direct current required in many industrial operations. Electronic devices are said to provide the split second timing and exacting control of current and electrode pressure needed for the resistance welding of lightweight alloys. Other devices guide flyers to make blind landings safely. Photoelectric control

LITTLE DAVIDS OF THE AIR WIN FAME IN CUBS

4 from Illinois First to Receive Medals.

Air medals have been awarded to four infantry officers and soldiers from Chicago and Illinois for their services in cub observation planes, the army's "flivver" planes used to mark targets for bomber assaults.

These tiny planes, with engines stepped up in power, fly at low level, often over enemy territory, to correct the aim of the big guns far behind, the lines and to drop smoke grenades to guide bombers. The planes are manned by infantrymen, who are careful to draw the distinction that they are not in the air forces. Awarding of the air medal is a new honor that has come to them.

Illinois Men Named.

Dispatches related yesterday that Illinois men recently given the medals include Lieutenants George R. Hildreth, 7649 East Lake ter., and Robert W. Jones, 5915 Superior st., both of Chicago, and Lt. George L. Cralle, East St. Louis, and Sgt. Harold W. Clemons, Chenoa.

Sgt. Clemons, serving in the Southwest Pacific, flies with an army major in a cub plane that has three yellow bombs painted on its nose. "They're just as official as any you ever saw on a B-24," Clemons related in an army dispatch. "We've led A-20 bombers in over the target three times."

Used Machine Gun.

It was for one of his sorties in New Guinea, when Clemons volunteered to act as an observer behind the lines, that he won the air medal. His citation stated that he used a .45 caliber machine gun to keep enemy fire at a minimum, enabling the pilot to fly at low altitude and spot profitable targets for marking.

Sgt. Clemons dropped smoke grenades with "great accuracy" to mark the targets for three squadrons of light bombers that followed.

Lt. Jones won his citation for participating in 76 operational flights at Bougainville, in the Solomon Islands, from Feb. 10 to April 7, 1944. The flights represented 100 hours in the air, much of the time being spent over enemy held territory on reconnaissance and field artillery fire adjustment missions.

Also at Bougainville.

Lt. Cralle also served at Bougainville, participating in 64 operational flights during which exposure "to enemy fire was probable and expected."

Lt. Hildreth's award was for "meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights in military operations against the enemy from June 9 to July 4, 1944, in Normandy, France."

200,000 TO JOIN BOND DRIVE IN 6TH WAR LOAN

When the 6th war loan campaign opens Nov. 20 an army of 200,000 war bond workers will be ready for the all-out selling drive, Francis M. Knight, chairman, said yesterday.

The workers are divided into occupational, geographical, nationality, and other groups, and each phase of the drive operations is assigned to a specific committee or group. Numerically the largest of the selling divisions is the retail outlets, headed by Hector Suyker, president of the Fair. This division will have an estimated 75,000 workers.

The office of civilian defense division and the small business group will have 40,000 workers each. The pay roll savings division and the women's group have 30,000 each.

Approximately 12,000 school children, one for each public and parochial classroom in the county, will sell bonds to fellow pupils. Many smaller groups will join the effort.

PASTOR TELLS CHURCHGOERS THIEF GOT CAR

The Rev. Wallace T. McAfee, pastor of the Normal Park Presbyterian church, 215 W. 71st st., had an added starter among his pulpit announcements yesterday.

After reading the list of missionary meetings for the coming week he told his congregation that his car, license 172-162, used almost entirely in church work, was stolen from in front of his home at 7258 Princeton av. shortly before he left the house to go to church yesterday.

He asked members of the congregation to look for it. He made the same request to police.

Kenny System Film Shows How It Works

A documentary film showing results of the Kenny system of treating infantile paralysis, which has been exhibited in many eastern cities, will be shown in Chicago early in December, Sister Elizabeth Kenny, its originator, said yesterday. Physicians who viewed the film, she said, were enthusiastic about the system's success in permitting early diagnosis of the malady and in the prevention of deformities.

20 Cartons Cigarets Taken in Cafe Theft

Twenty cartons of cigarets and 15 pounds of butter were included in the $97 loot early yesterday in a burglary of the Radio Eat shop, 116 Willard ct., Frank Buti, owner, reported to police.
